

Department of Political Science

Columbian College of Arts and Sciences

INSIDE THE ISSUE

- 2 A Note from the Chair
- 3–5 Student Internships and Updates
- 6–8 Alumni News and Achievements
- 9–10 Spotlight on New Faculty
- 11 Faculty in the News

- 12 Leadership Updates
- 13 Thank You to Our Donors

A NOTE FROM THE CHAIR

The Covid-19 pandemic shaped the fall 2020 semester at GW, much as it disrupted most aspects of life around the world. Several of our faculty and many more of our students were affected by the virus, either by catching it or helping care for family members with it. Campus was closed for most faculty, students, and staff. Fall classes were all online, which required a few adjustments. I am used to seeing blank faces in my classes, but this semester I mostly saw blank screens on Zoom. Because of the disconnected nature of online classes, faculty had to find new ways of engaging with students, including new types of group projects, using discussion boards and Google Docs, and simply staying after class longer to talk with students. We will be online again in the spring, and then hopefully we will be back to in-person instruction in fall 2021.

Although how we did things changed considerably, what we did was surprisingly similar. Our students continued to do interesting internships (see pp. 3-5), albeit mostly online. Our alumni continued to have new achievements (see p. 6-8). We welcomed three new faculty (see pp. 9-10), although they have not been able to meet most of their new colleagues yet. Our faculty also continued to publish high profile and timely books and articles (see pp. 11), and received new grants to launch new research projects. For many of us, continuing to research and write was a welcome respite from the daily news. And several faculty took on new administrative duties to keep the Political Science Department and the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences running smoothly (see p. 12).

As 2020 draws to a close, I hope that 2021 will prove to be something closer to normal for us all.

Bruce Dickson
Department Chair

STUDENT INTERNSHIPS AND UPDATES

See how our undergraduates spend their time!

Jennifer Garcia
Majors in Political Science and English
Internship with Voto Latino

As a Digital Communications Intern at Voto Latino, I created material that promoted the Latinx community to become more civically engaged through voting, taking the census, and mobilizing others.

I loved everything about this internship. I worked there in the spring and loved the office, how everyone incorporated interns, and especially the mission of the organization.

Jennifer Garcia
Expected Graduation: May 2022

Madeline Hall
Major in Political Science
Internship with D.C. Hunger Solutions

Working as the Anti-Hunger Communications Intern, I developed content and managed posts for DCHS's social media platforms and assisted with writing blog posts, fact sheets, newsletters, and web content. One of my favorite projects was creating the introduction to federal nutrition programs video series for District residents. I learned through this process how deeply everyone at DCHS thinks about the implications of their actions, Director Beverley Wheeler suggesting during the editing process that I try to find a way for the visually impaired to be able to engage with the video series as well – leading to my creation of accompanying voiceovers that were deemed so helpful that partner organizations began asking permission to share our video series on their platforms. DCHS is one of the most hardworking, supportive team environments where every individual is passionate about working hard to end hunger in D.C., and I consider myself so lucky to have worked with such incredible people for such an important cause!

Madeline Hall
Expected Graduation: May 2021

Student Internships and Updates Cont.

Hannah Kelman Major in Political Science Internship with Thorn Run Partners

Since January of 2020, I have had the pleasure of interning with the lobbying firm Thorn Run Partners. I never imagined that I would be crafting products for Fortune 500 clients and working alongside one of D.C.'s most esteemed policy tracking operations as a college intern. Navigating health policy at TRP as the pandemic erupted, and continues to consume the nation, has been a pivotal factor in shaping my career goals. Throughout my time so far at TRP, I have experienced many amazing moments. However, my favorite memory formed a few weeks ago, when I accepted an offer to become TRP's newest Legislative Assistant upon my graduation in December!

At my internship, I conduct health care policy research and engage in TRP's policy tracking shop. I also watch Congressional hearings and craft memos and analysis for our clients, ranging from health care to financial services. I work on client deliverables every day, and I am fully integrated into the policy team. I've been remote since March, but my coworkers and I still manage to socialize (safely!) outside of work. It's the most challenging, demanding internship I have ever had, but I am learning so much and loving every second of it!

Hannah Kelman
Expected Graduation: December 2020

Noah Levin Majors in Political Science and International Affairs Internship with ML Strategies

This semester I interned at ML Strategies, a government relations firm with a broad array of clients across many industries. Through writing congressional hearing reports, tracking legislative proposals, and writing summaries of pending bills, I feel as if I gained a broad understanding of the issues pertinent to stakeholders across multiple industries.

Due to COVID-19, this internship was remote, and I was asked to do a lot of research for our biotech clients. While I previously did not have much interest in the healthcare field, watching hearings with the nation's top doctors was extremely interesting and allowed me to remain educated on the development of vaccines, therapeutics, and testing. It was also rewarding to find relevant grants that would assist clients in researching potential therapies and vaccine candidates considering how important these remedies will be to saving lives and returning to normal.

Noah Levin
Expected Graduation: December 2020

Student Internships and Updates Cont.

Charles Panfil

Major in Political Science

Internship with The Daschle Group

At The Daschle Group, I serve as a Public Policy Clerk, and assist the staff with client projects that span from covering congressional hearings to designing social media campaign graphics to election law analysis. The Daschle Group is the Public Policy Advisory to the Baker Donelson law firm and provides political strategy, advocacy, and intelligence to a wide array of corporate, non-profit, and international clients. The Daschle Group was founded by Former Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle (D-SD) and is managed by his son Nathan Daschle who is the former Executive Director of the Democratic Governors' Association.

I have been a Public Policy Clerk at The Daschle Group since June 2020 and have loved every second of it. The team treats me like a real team member and has trusted me with super interesting projects and client work that has helped me develop my interest in the lobbying and advocacy industry after graduation. My favorite moments so far have been our weekly team meetings where we all get to come together and talk about what we have been working on and enjoy each other's virtual company for an hour.

Charles Panfil

Expected Graduation: July 2021

Helena Russo-Delee

Majors in Political Science and American Studies

Internship with the Leonardo Bullaro Campaign for New York City Council

Since last summer I have had the privilege of interning for a City Council campaign in New York City's 22nd District (Queens County). My roles as a research and policy intern has me developing policy issue positions and related legislative and programmatic initiatives as well as planning communications and advocacy strategies for their advancement. Specifically, I focus on traditional workforce development and its improvement -- rethinking the system of job skill acquisition and job placement to expedite a post-COVID economic recovery. What has made this internship so special is the access I have to the candidate and his reliance on my work as well as participating in the new world of virtual political campaigning. I look forward to being in New York City next summer.

Helena Russo-Delee

Expected Graduation: December 2021

ALUMNI NEWS AND ACHIEVEMENTS

- Francis Anderson BA '95, released a fourth rock album, ASON, by Chickahominy Vibe, on Ellorenz Records, which is available on all platforms. Francis is in pre-production to shoot and star in a full feature film in fall 2021 called The Lion of Judah Legacy, with MJD Productions.
- Esther Agbaje BA '07, recently won election as a State Representative in the state of Minnesota.
- Max Brown BA '88, is working as a strategist for companies such as Lyft, Instacart, Zipcar, and Revel. He was reappointed to another four year term to serve as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Washington Convention and Sports Authority by DC Mayor Muriel Bowser.
- David Brunori, Esq. BA '84, MA '95, is a senior director at RSM US and continues to serve as a research professor of public policy at The George Washington University. Most recently, he was elected a fellow at the National Academy of Public Administration.
- Courtney Buble BA '18, is a reporter for the online publication Government Executive covering federal management and oversight.
- Steffanie Burgevin BA '68, is living on a farm in historic Waterford, Virginia, and has another farm in Clarke County. Between these two farms and her horses, her days are quite busy. She spends the afternoons writing and researching her family's four hundred years in America.
- Robin Clyman BA '69, is still currently running Cockpit USA with her husband of forty-nine years, Jeff Clyman, JD '70. Robin is based in Manhattan, where she and Jeff have also created, sponsored and run the www.americanairpowermuseum.org, a 501C3.
- Jay Cohen BA '73, is a senior advisor to Compliance Systems Legal Group, a firm that focuses exclusively on compliance, ethics and corporate governance - helping companies strengthen compliance programs, address new rules and remediate compliance issues.
- Andrew Dixon, Esq. BA '92, recently celebrated ten years as an administrative law judge with the Social Security Administration & completed a stint as acting hearing office chief administrative law judge of the Tallahassee Hearing Office in March.
- Bill Dugan BA '86, is a digital marketing and publishing professional. He applies his political-science knowledge gained at GW to everyday business and personal situations. Bill is a father and grandfather, and resides in both Massachusetts and Washington, DC.
- Kathleen Floyd BA '18, has been working at The Washington Post in the PR Department since she graduated from GW. She started as a communications coordinator, booking reporters on TV and radio interviews. Kathleen is now a publicist for the business, tech and investigative sections.
- Liz Glusman BA '13, graduated from Berkeley Law in May, and joined the Bay Area offices of Latham & Watkins in October.
- Enming Gong BA '20, is currently pursuing a Master's degree at Georgetown University.
- Billy Grant BA '20, has hit the ground running since his Covid graduation. He worked with a Florida political consulting group leading up to the election. Now, Billy finds himself working in a Federal Courthouse awaiting the potential impending election litigation.
- Kendahl Hawkins BA '18, is currently the finance director for Mike Siegel for Congress.
- Kenneth Ian BA '92, took some time off after retiring from the Navy. He now works at the Department of Justice.
- Frederick Joyce BA '80, recently retired as chief communications and cyber security counsel for the U.S. Coast Guard. He previously chaired the Telecom Law Group at Venable LLP law firm. Frederick is currently living in Mount Vernon, VA with his wife, Judy, and kids.

Alumni News and Achievements Cont.

- Pam Lawrence BA '76, is very happily retired from a career in Healthcare Strategy and Administration and remains connected to GW through the National Council of Arts and Sciences and as a board member of the Medical Faculty Associates.
- Bill Lutz BA '85, has been happily married for twenty-three years with two great college-age kids, one boy and one girl. They live in Southern California as Bill is an assistant general counsel for Starr Insurance Holdings.
- Lorenzo Marchetti BA '19, is finishing up his Master of Arts in International Affairs at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, while working at the Center for Constitutional Studies and Democratic Development in Bologna.
- Brianna Massey BA '20, is working at Veracity Media in Washington, DC as a digital advertising strategist.
- John McCullough BA '81, is a principal in a Swiss firm providing technology to producers of plasma based medicines. These include albumin and intravenous gamma globulin in developing countries and Hemarus Plasma LLC in South Florida, which operates commercial plasma centers.
- Max McGowen BA '11, is the development operations manager at Silicon Valley Community Foundation, a public charity based in Mountain View, CA, which connects donors with local priorities and helps them to craft strategies to achieve their philanthropic goals.
- Nate Morris BA '03 was named a Fulbright Specialist Scholar by the U.S. Department of State and the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board. He will serve a three year term.
- Brooke Ochsner BA '13, is currently obtaining her MBA at the Johns Hopkins Carey Business School. She looks to continue pursuing market research in the healthcare field.
- Michael Orenstein BA '79, has been a practicing AV rated State and Federal criminal defense attorney for the past thirty-six years. Michael is a proud father of Jared Orenstein, a sophomore in the Elliott School of International Affairs.
- Akshay Parikh BA '19, is an associate client advisor with Bessemer Trust, a private wealth management company. In this role, he works on a team that provides customized estate planning, investment management, and tax strategies to high net worth families.
- Justin Prinstein BA '06, is currently an international scouting supervisor for the Cincinnati Reds and is the founder of International Stars Baseball, a non-profit organization offering free baseball and mentorship to inner-city youth.
- Michael Purzycki BA '08, has worked as a contract editor for the Department of Labor and the Federal Emergency Management Agency. He has been published in Arc Digital, Charged Affairs, Divergent Options, and Merion West.
- Jason Rabbino BA '90, has been a faculty member of Villanova University since 2016. Earlier in his career, Jason served as a Navy pilot for nine years before working as a consultant with McKinsey, followed by senior executive roles with Aramark, Tyco, Brambles, and Towne Park, a leading hospitality services company.
- Patrick Realiza BA '11, was appointed as co-chair of the Peace and Security Committee of the United Nations Association of the National Capital Area (UNA-NCA) in January 2020.
- Bernardo Reis BA '19, works as an outreach associate for ActBlue now, managing relationships with democratic campaigns across the south. #Bluewave #NewSouth
- Dave Richardson PhD '18, has been named chair of the Political Science Department at the United States Naval Academy.
- Jose Roman BA '20, is a financial analyst with Citibank in New York City. He works alongside the Treasury and Trade Solutions sector in the financial institution, creating and analyzing solutions for clients and businesses that conduct trade with the Bank.

Alumni News and Achievements Cont.

- Sean Ruddy BA '20, is currently pursuing a Master of Public Policy at the Trachtenberg School of Public Policy and Public Administration at The George Washington University.
- Mikel Schwab BS '81, is currently a trial attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice and serves as the civil chief for the Districts of Guam and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands in the Pacific. GW inspired his lifetime of inquiry and adventure!
- Leleta Serafim BA '73, continues to write and will be publishing the fourth book in her Greek Island Mystery series this winter with Coffeetown Press. She is also at work on her second children's book. The first book, Molly Saw A Bear, came out in June.
- Julie Silverbrook BA '09, joined the team of iCivics (www.icivics.org) as their senior director of partner-ships and constitutional scholar in residence.
- Fred Simkin BA '90, became the President of the GW Alumni Association of the UK, after the Club was officially formed in early 2019. The club has held virtual events this year to keep the members involved and included. Let's see what '21 brings us!!
- Colleen Fisher Simons BA '08, is the regional director for the Pacific South network in the U.S. Department of Commerce. In this role, she manages ten U.S. Export Assistance Centers with a staff of thirty trade specialists in California, Nevada, and Hawaii.
- David Steiner BS '91, is the treasurer for a congressional candidate.
- Selena Strandberg BA '11, is the founder of KnowYourVote.io, a non-partisan political information site that aggregates data on candidates and issues. KnowYourVote is making a buzz with young voters and is partnering with companies like Barry's, Outdoor Voices, and Glossier.
- Michelle Tanney BA '06, is an attorney at BakerHostetler in New York City where she practices litigation and regulatory enforcement. She is married to Nick, with whom she shares a daughter, Madison.
- Adam Weisler BA '90, was announced as the new library trustee for The Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidential Library and Museum. Read more in the online newsletter.
- Kevin Werner BA '82, lives in La Jolla, California with his beautiful spouse and a hyper-neurotic border collie. Between travel adventures, he advises companies in connection with M&A transactions and works with both for profit and non-profit corporate boards.

Current PhD Students in the News

- Alexander Beck, Elizabeth Meehan, Aryamala Prasad with Dr. Steven Balla. "Lost in the Flood?" Agency Responsiveness to Mass Comment Campaigns in Administrative Rulemaking." Regulation & Governance, (2020).
- Colin Emrich was accepted for publication in The Journal of Legislative Studies, for his article titled "The Electoral Effects of Closing Military Bases."
- Amoz Hor was awarded the Fred Hartman Award of the Best Graduate Student Paper Presented at ISA-Northeast 2019 Conference. The paper is entitled: "The Affective Politics of Pop-Economics: How Racializing Japan Naturalized Protectionism and Welfare Cuts in the 1980s-90s."
- Gabriel C. Kelley is contributing to survey and bibliographic research, as well as to an index for Central & East European Politics: From Communism to Democracy, 5th Ed., set to be published in June 2021.
- Kendrick Kuo wrote "Military Innovation and Technological Determinism: British and U.S. Ways of Carrier Warfare, 1919-1945," published in the Journal of Global Security Studies. He was also the co-winner of the Barbara W. Tuchman Prize for Best Graduate Student Paper in Historical International Relations 2020.

SPOTLIGHT ON NEW FACULTY

Welcome to our new faculty!

Michael Hankinson

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Areas of Expertise: American politics, political behavior, public opinion, state and local politics, public policy, inequality

What drew you to political science and your specialization?

I grew up where suburban sprawl devours farmland. From a young age, seeing the landscape change elicited a strong normative response—that this was a problem. As an undergraduate, I learned that what seemed like a local challenge was not only a political outcome, but one linked to political decisions made 50 miles away! This complexity and its unexpected consequences led me to pursue the politics of land use and housing.

What value do you find in studying political science during today's political climate?

Studying political science has helped me understand two valuable things. First, the political climate of today is not a given, but one constructed through decades of political choices. Second, we can use data to identify which policies and reforms would most improve the status quo. I find those two realizations uplifting even when the challenges of today seem insurmountable.

What are you reading for fun right now?

For inspiration, The Warmth of Other Suns by Isabel Wilkerson, and for relaxation, the Broken Earth trilogy by N.K. Jemisin.

What activity do you like to do outside of work?

Cycling. Every time I ride my bicycle, my day improves ($p < .001$).

Iris Malone

Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Affairs

Areas of Expertise: International security, terrorism, insurgency, civil war

What drew you to political science and your specialization?

I didn't set out to study political science. I was a Chemistry major in college. However, I was drawn to study political science because I took a leave of absence from college in 2007-2008 to work on Barack Obama's campaign. I worked as a volunteer for the primaries and then as a field organizer for the general. It was the most rewarding experience and I can't recommend similar opportunities highly enough for students.

When I returned to college after the campaign, I decided to major in political science as well as Chemistry. I ended up getting interested in international security issues, in particular, after working as a research assistant for a professor on how dictators fight wars. I became interested in political instability, revolutions, and civil war after the Arab Spring broke out during my senior year of college. I had a professor who took over a lecture hall and was providing a continuous video stream of Al Jazeera. It was mesmerizing.

Spotlight on New Faculty Cont.

What is an unexpected positive of working in academia and what is a challenge?

A huge positive of working in academia is the freedom to research whatever you want. As a kid, having a special interest and obsessively learning everything about it could be a liability on the playground. As a professor, it's an asset. A challenge to academia – especially now – is making sure you get outside the ivory tower. I think it's important to have conversations with people outside your subfield and outside your discipline to make sure your research is meaningful and policy-relevant.

What activity do you like to do outside of work?

Running, hiking, backpacking, watching the Smithsonian's National Zoo - Giant Panda Cam.

What is your favorite Political movie or TV shows or Netflix binge-worthy series?

I really liked the TV show Madame Secretary. It's like if every West Wing episode was about International Relations. I used to work as the Research Director for the Office of Former Secretary Condoleezza Rice so it was really fun to imagine the Secretary's war stories being dramatized.

Julian Wamble

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Areas of Expertise: American politics, race and politics, political psychology, political behavior, voting behavior, experimental and survey methods

What courses are you teaching or will you be teaching at GW?

This semester I am teaching a graduate level course on Public Opinion and Political Psychology. In the spring, I will be teaching a new course called Harry Potter and the Politics of Social Identity (I'm very excited about this course!) and another graduate level course on Political Representation. In the coming semesters, I plan to offer a few courses on Race and Politics as well.

What can students at GW look forward to as they take your class?

Students can look forward to good conversations. I am fortunate enough to study a topic (race and politics) that is chronically salient in public discourse, but also seen as taboo in many instances as well. As a professor, I work to foster an environment that is respectful but pushes us to think beyond general conventions of how we should talk about race. So my class tend to be much more discussion based than lectures as I think they offer the ability for students to voice their own opinions while also hearing others' experiences.

What activity do you like to do outside of work?

I love the theater. So going to plays and musicals (remember when that was a thing?) is something that I enjoy doing when given the chance.

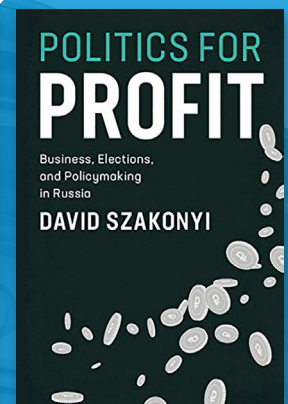

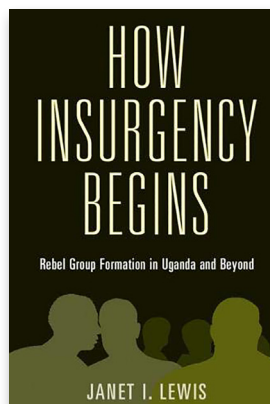

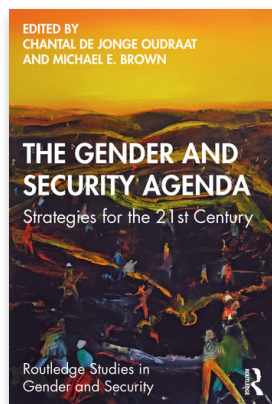

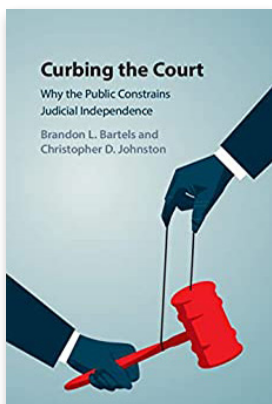

What is your favorite political movie or TV show?

I love the show Scandal, starring GW alum, Kerry Washington. I mean, what's not to love?! It's politics, drama, and ridiculous antics! I still binge watch it on Netflix even though it's been over for a few years.

FACULTY IN THE NEWS

- Steven Balla has been named co-director of GW's Regulatory Studies Center.
- Sarah Binder was quoted by the Associated Press in "In Trump's shadow, Congress-at-home eyes re-boot during virus."
- Adam Dean received a Dorothy Day Award from APSA Labor Politics for his paper on free trade and labor repression in developing countries. He is also a visiting scholar at Harvard's Weatherhead Center.
- Martha Finnemore and Michelle Jurkovich, "The Politics of Aspiration," International Studies Quarterly.
- Henry E. Hale and Marlene Laruelle authored, "Rethinking Civilizational Identity from the Bottom Up: A Case Study of Russia and a Research Agenda," Nationalities Papers, May 2020.
- Stephen B. Kaplan was selected as an outstanding professor within the Elliott School of International Affairs by the Xi Rho Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, the professional business fraternity at GW.
- Yon Lupu received a RAPID NSF grant for his project, "Vulnerable Populations, Online Information, and COVID-19." The co-PI is Neil Johnson (GW Physics).
- Iris Malone received a DHS NCITE Center of Excellence grant for her project, "Effect of Organizational Dynamics on Terrorist Threats and Counterterrorism Responses." The co-PI is Martha Crenshaw (Stanford University).
- Harris Mylonas, "Greece: Political Developments and Data in 2019," European Journal of Political Research, Political Data Yearbook, Vol. 59, Issue 1, 2020.
- Lucia M. Rafanelli, "Toward an Individualist Postcolonial Cosmopolitanism," Millennium: Journal of International Studies, 2020.
- Christopher Warshaw with Lynn Vavreck and Ryan Baxter-King, authored "Fatalities from COVID-19 are reducing Americans' support for Republicans at every level of federal office," for Science Advances, October 2020.

New books by Brandon Bartels, Michael E. Brown, Janet I. Lewis, David Shambaugh, and David Szakonyi are linked below:

LEADERSHIP UPDATES

Ingrid Creppell
Director of Graduate Studies, Political Science

We are thrilled to welcome Ingrid Creppell as our new Director of Graduate Studies! Professor Creppell's teaching and research interests range from ancient to contemporary works in the history of political theory, and interdisciplinary studies of politics and ethics. She is currently working on enmity as a conceptual, normative, psychological and historical phenomenon.

She succeeds Eric Grynaviski who served as a great advocate for our graduate students in the program.

Yonatan Lupu
Director of Graduate Placement, Political Science

Political Science is pleased to welcome Yonatan Lupu as our new Director of Graduate Placement. Professor Lupu's research and teaching interests include human rights, political violence, international law and institutions, international conflict, and courts.

He succeeds Danny Hayes who oversaw several excellent student placements at the University of California-San Diego, University of Connecticut, Virginia Tech, and King's College London, and other top schools.

Robert Stoker
Associate Chair, Political Science

We are very fortunate that Robert Stoker has agreed to serve as the department's associate chair. Professor Stoker's research and teaching interests are in the field of public policy.

He has been a font of wisdom, always ready to offer common sense advice based on his deep knowledge of the department, college, and university. He succeeds Eric Lawrence, who is now on a well-deserved sabbatical.

Paul Wahlbeck
Dean, Columbian College of Arts & Sciences

Paul Wahlbeck has been appointed Dean of the Columbian College of Arts & Sciences after serving as Interim Dean. He also served as the department's Chair from 2011–2015.

Professor Wahlbeck's research and teaching focus on judicial politics and research methods.

THANK YOU TO OUR DONORS

We gratefully acknowledge our generous donors from July 1, 2019 – October 31, 2020!

Loren Amdursky *
Elliot Bell-Krasner, BA '08
Dr. Sarah Binder +
Jennifer Blankenheim, BA '02
Michael Carson, BA '67, MA '68
Dr. N. Joseph Cayer *
Jonathan Cohanne, BA '70
John Colby, BA '73
Steven Cramner, BA '87
Dr. Christopher Deering +
Andrew Dixon, III, Esq., BA '92
Diane Dupin, BA '65, MA '68
Dr. Maurice East +
Joseph D. Edmondson, BA '88
Barbara M. Edmondson, BA '88
Mark Frankel, PhD '76
Wallace Gernt, Jr., MA '83
Audrey Hertzberg, BA '18
John Holder, MA '90, MPhil '93

Douglas Hopkins, MA '81
Frederick Mark Joyce, BA '80
Benjamin Klubes, Esq., BA '87
Sun Kwon, BA '11
Daniel LeClair, BA '05, +
Dr. Forrest Maltzman +
John Mancus, BA '76
Matthew Marsh #
Michelle Marsh #
Elizabeth Matto, MPhil '96, PhD '00
Dr. Cynthia McClintock + #
Scott McNeil, BA '12
Wynne Moskop, MA '75, PhD '85
Edward Nelson, BA '73
Rev. William Olewiler, BA '66
Dr. Diana Owen, BA '80
Sage Polanco, BA '19
Dr. Barbara Presnall, BA '65, MA '69
Peter Rogers #

Dr. Carol Sigelman +
Ms. Stanlee J. Stahl, MA '71
Rosalind Tedards, MA '69
Bryan Tramont, BA '89
Janice Wahlbeck #
Dr. Paul Wahlbeck +
Adam Weisler, BA '90
Dr. Kenneth Winneg, BA '82

Charles Koch Foundation
Fidelity Charitable Gift Fund
Schwab Charitable Fund

Parent
~ Student
 Friend
+ Faculty/Staff

GIVE TODAY

Gifts to the Department of Political Science allow us to further our research initiatives no matter how large or small. They make positive impacts on our educational mission and further our standing as one of the United States' preeminent programs.

Make a gift to the department:

Online at giving.gwu.edu/ways-to-give select "other" and type in "Political Science" via the secure online giving form

By Mail in the form of a check to George Washington University with Political Science Department in the memo line to:

PO Box 98131
Washington, DC 20077-9756

Call us at: 1-800-789-2611

Give by Volunteering at alumni.gwu.edu/volunteer

