Google Political Advertising Intern

No place is closer to the nexus of politics, technology, and advertising than Google’s political team, which works directly with campaigns and their digital consultants to help them raise funds, persuade, and mobilize supporters through online advertising. Focusing on Search, Display, YouTube, and Mobile advertising, we are at the cutting-edge of bringing the tools used by the savviest corporate advertisers to political campaigns on both sides of the aisle – as well as issue advocacy groups and Super PACs.

Calling this a just another internship would be like calling Google just another tech company. Google Political Advertising Interns will work a full time, paid internship from June - November 2014, alongside the Google political advertising team in Washington, DC. Campaigns’ use of online advertising is growing exponentially – and our team needs support to continue providing the best possible solutions to our clients.

We will train the Interns on the skills necessary to become fully-functioning members of our team. When the campaign season reaches its peak this fall, we want you at Google applying the skills you’ve learned all summer. This program is designed to be one of the most intense experiences in Washington, because we work the same hours as the campaigns, but also one of the most rewarding. We give the Interns the responsibility to design online advertising strategies and implement the tactics that will mean the difference between victory and defeat for many candidates.

Minimum qualifications
- Students must be planning to graduate between December 2014 and June 2015 from a Bachelors program, with any major, at a US University.
- Will have completed their 3rd year of study and be able to begin the internship on June 23, 2014.
- Commitment to working full time throughout the summer and fall semester in Google's Washington, DC office.
- Experience working on political campaigns at the state or national level

The Public Service Fellows Program at the Partnership for Public Service is an opportunity for undergraduate students, graduate students and recent graduates to participate directly in transforming the way government works while developing valuable professional skills.

At the Partnership, fellows are integral to the day-to-day operations, programs and activities of our organization. We value the contributions of fellows and work to provide relevant and useful experiences in return. Fellows are assigned substantive and meaningful work to support our wide variety of programs, events and projects to help revitalize the federal government by focusing on the people working in it. Fellows' duties vary across the Partnership’s internal teams, but often include event planning and execution, conducting research, writing and preparing correspondence, and conducting outreach to external partners, such as government agencies and colleges and universities.

True to the Partnership’s emphasis on people, the fellows program incorporates opportunities for professional and personal growth through workshops and trainings specifically geared toward students and young professionals. We also strive to ensure a quality experience in terms of work and personal relationships throughout the fellowship term. Fellows also receive the following stipends:

- Full-time fellows with an undergraduate or graduate degree receive $1000 per month.
- Full-time fellows who are currently undergraduate students receive $800 per month.
- Stipends for part-time fellows will be pro-rated accordingly.

Who Should Apply
We seek extraordinary undergraduate students, graduate students and recent graduates with:

- A commitment to public service
- Strong written and oral communication
- Analytical thinking
- An ability to work well in teams

There is no single academic major or background we prefer over another—if you share our passion and are committed to developing your skills while gaining valuable experience, we want to hear from you!

Government Relations/Public Affairs Intern (Summer)

The National Retail Federation (NRF) is the world’s largest retail trade association, representing discount and department stores, home goods and specialty stores, Main Street merchants, grocers, wholesalers, chain restaurants and Internet retailers from the United States and more than 45 countries. Retail is the nation’s largest private sector employer, supporting one in four U.S. jobs – 42 million working Americans. Contributing $2.5 trillion to annual GDP, retail is a daily barometer for the nation’s economy. NEW POSTING!!

The Exchange is an effort by Mideastwire.com and its partners to promote understanding and academic enrichment through a variety of city-focused conferences in and around the Middle East. During their stay, typically lasting from one to two weeks, students and professionals from around the world engage directly with some of the leading intellectuals, academics and political leaders in the country - representing all sides.

THE ELEVENTH BEIRUT EXCHANGE: March 22-29, 2014
Limited spaces available/Rolling acceptance

The Beirut Exchange program rests on two tracks:
Academic - Participants will attend a series of lectures and colloquia led by leading academics and public intellectuals in Lebanon. Topics will include: The Arab Uprisings; The Syrian conflict and its regional implications; The Special Tribunal for Lebanon; The United Nations as peacekeeper and mediator; Engaging political Islam; Asymmetrical conflict: The July 2006 Lebanon War; Human Rights in Lebanon and the wider Middle East; Sectarianism and its deployment, as well as a range of other topics.

Dialogue with Leaders - Participants will have the opportunity to meet, listen and engage leading social, political and economic actors from across the spectrum in Lebanon - with a particular (though not exclusive) emphasis on exposure to Islamist and opposition currents.

NOTE: Due to the current security situation in Lebanon, the Eleventh Beirut Exchange will generally restrict its meetings and activities to the hotel.

Costs:
Tuition - $900; Partial financial aid is available for those students and individuals that can demonstrate need.
Accommodation & Conference Location - Except for those students already residing in Lebanon, we recommend that all participants in the Exchange reside at the conference hotel during the duration of the seven day program. The hotel, located near Downtown Beirut, is priced at $65 per person/per night, including all taxes and breakfast. Single rooms are available for $95 per night.
Airfare - $1200, approximate from the United States.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM CENTER
OF THE NEWSEUM INSTITUTE

Unlearning Liberty: Campus Censorship and the End of the American Debate
Monday, March 10, 2014, at 6:30 p.m.
Knight Conference Center at the Newseum
555 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W.,
Washington, D.C.

Join the Religious Freedom Center of the Newseum Institute for a provocative and timely discussion about the assault on free speech taking place on campuses throughout the country. Hear from First Amendment lawyer Greg Lukianoff, who has been battling censorship at America's colleges and universities for over a decade, how intolerance for dissent and debate on today's campus threatens the freedom of every citizen. A reception and book signing will follow the discussion.

Greg Lukianoff is the president of the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education (FIRE) and the author of “Unlearning Liberty: Campus Censorship and the End of American Debate” (expanded paperback edition releases on March 11). He was the first ever recipient of the Playboy Foundation Freedom of Expression Award and has also received the Ford Hall Forum's Louis P. and Evelyn Smith First Amendment Award on behalf of FIRE. Lukianoff is a graduate of American University and of Stanford Law School, where he focused on First Amendment and constitutional law.

The program is free, but registration is required. RSVP at http://www.newseum.org/programs/2014/0310-institute/rsvp031014.html

NEW POSTING!!

50 YEARS after declaring a war on poverty, 50 million children and adults in our country are still mired in poverty. Another 60 million live below 200% of the poverty line, in significant need of support with life’s necessities. The good news is we know how to end poverty for one individual and one family after another. We can ensure that every American has a chance at the freedom and independence that is at the core of our nation, but that poverty denies.

The National Conference on Ending Poverty will highlight innovative, on-the-ground approaches to ending poverty and connect attendees with concrete ways to engage.

Featuring the following outstanding speakers and leaders:

- Dave Phillips, Co-Founder, Cincinnati Works
- Dr. Pamela Loprest, Senior Fellow, Urban Institute
- Arne Peyer & Nicholas Mozr, Cornerstone Montgomery
- Cubby Graham, School Partnerships, charity: water
- Dr. Sheryl Brisseau-Chapman, Ralph Belk, & Jasslyn Morgan, National Center for Children and Families
- Jeffrey Faulkner, President, Ways to Work & Tonya Jackson Smallwood, President and CEO, Family Matters of Greater Washington
- Uma Ahluwalia, Director, Montgomery County Department of Health & Human Services, and Ronnie Galvin, Executive Director, Impact Silver Spring
- Hans Riemen, Councilmember, Montgomery County Council, Pamela Luckett, Member, Montgomery Community Action Board, and Shawn McMahon, Acting President and CEO, Wider Opportunities for Women

Opening address by Isaiah (Ike) Leggett, Montgomery County Executive

Remarks by Steve Silverman, Montgomery County Director of Economic Development

Closing panel featuring our neighbors living in poverty today

The conference will be moderated by Washington Post columnist Dana Milbank

Internships

NEW POSTING!!

It’s that time of year again!! The 2014 AFL-CIO Union Summer internship program will be looking to recruit the best and brightest activists from your college campuses in the next few weeks. The Union Summer internship runs 9 weeks and is a paid internship program that introduces students to the labor union movement. The internship starts with a weeklong orientation and training where interns learn about the history and current state of the American labor movement. Interns will also learn union skill building firsthand. The interns are then assigned to work on various union organizing campaigns with AFL-CIO affiliates.

The work of a U.S. intern could include (but not limited to): working on state legislative battles, talking one-on-one with workers about their jobs, planning and participating in direct actions like marches, and assisting in building relationships with community, labor and religious organizations. Participation in Union Summer is an ideal way for young people to learn about unions and a way for young activists to look into careers in the American Labor Movement.

Union Summer interns must be:
- Flexible and willing to work long hours, nights & weekends on an unpredictable schedule
- Adaptable in the face of new challenges and experiences
- Able to work in teams and have excellent communication skills
- Open to working with people of different races, ethnic backgrounds, religious & sexual orientations
- Willing to immerse themselves in an intensive, learning-by-doing experience

US Interns are paid $350 weekly (minus taxes)
Accepted applicants must have housing in the cities where Union Summer sites have been designated.
2014 Union Summer internship dates: June 16 – August 15, 2014
Application Deadline: April 15, 2014

If students are interested in applying now, please apply online to www.aflcio.org/unionsummer.
NEW POSTING!!

The Washington Center is excited to announce summer 2014 internship opportunities available through the Federal Diversity Internship Initiative (previously the Competitive Government Program). If interested, students should apply by March 3, 2014 for paid positions with one of several federal agencies.

Selected students will intern for 10 weeks at offices within the Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Environmental Protection Agency, National Archives and Records Administration or a similar agency. Positions may be available in Washington, D.C. and several regional locations.

Many available positions call for candidates from the fields of aviation, business, human resources, computer science, healthcare, statistics, communication, library science, environmental science, public administration and engineering - so applications from students pursuing these majors are encouraged. Additionally, TWC encourages students from many diverse backgrounds to apply - including women, minorities and students with disabilities.

Accepted interns will receive significant financial assistance, including a stipend, fully-furnished housing, and a travel allowance. Students will not be responsible for housing, program, or application fees.

For more information on the Federal Diversity Internship Initiative please visit: www.twc.edu/federal. Applications can be submitted at: http://portal.e.twc.edu/.

Middle East Institute
The Leadership Development Internship Program

Apply Today! Now Accepting Applications for the Summer 2014 Term!

The Leadership Development Internship Program at the Middle East Institute is designed to provide students or recent graduates considering a career in a Middle East related field with hands-on experience in a Washington-based, nonprofit organization that focuses exclusively on the Middle East. Interns obtain guidance, experience, and exposure to the Washington policy and scholarly community while developing professional skills with interns from all over the world.

Internships are available throughout the year to undergraduates who have completed at least one year of school, recent graduates, and graduate students. Positions are available on a full- or part-time basis with a minimum of 20 hours a week. All internships are unpaid, though the Middle East Institute offers each intern one free language class, a one-year membership to the Middle East Journal, and reimbursement for local travel expenses.

Available internships:
Center for Turkish Studies, Development, Languages, Library, Programs and Communications, Publications, and Research Assistantships.

To apply:
Please include the following in PDF format: cover letter, résumé, five-page writing sample, college transcript (official or unofficial), and one professional and two academic references (contact information only; no letters, please).

Application deadline (Summer 2014 term):
March 14

Send applications and questions to:
Alexandra BetGeorge: internships@mei.edu

In the words of a former intern:

The work environment was one not only of independence, freedom, and creativity, but also teamwork and collaboration. Interns were challenged to think critically and take on serious responsibility. I was given the opportunity to attend countless speeches and discussions, and learned more in those three months than I thought possible. My time at MEI was one I will never forget, and I will always appreciate the experience and knowledge it provided me.

Deutscher Bundestag

Would you like to work at the German Parliament?

The German Bundestag invites you, in cooperation with the Freie Universität Berlin, Humboldt-Universität Berlin, and Technische Universität Berlin, to apply for an International Parliamentary Scholarship (IPS) to spend five months in Berlin.

The IPS program is aimed at highly qualified young men and women who will return home after the program with the determination to play an active and responsible role in shaping their countries' democratic future.

The German Bundestag, the German Parliament, offers young people the opportunity to get to know the German parliamentary system and political decision-making processes and to gain practical experience of parliamentary work during a 15-week work placement with a Member of the Bundestag.

The scholarship winners are chosen by the German Bundestag’s independent selection panel. The selection interviews are held in the United States.
Meaningful campaign experience in Washington, DC
John Cheeks, - the David against Goliath, candidate with a platform (sling shot) giving incumbent DC council members a headache.

No one, in the life of DC politics, has announced such rational needed programs to give rebirth to a city crippled by an entrenched, inept, ossified, FBI investigated government. No one has asked for legislation for removal of substance addicted elected officials who pass legislation for their own protection and special interest groups.

Join and support honest, DC citizens, and university students to implement long overdue improvements in the lives of the working poor, productive blue and white collar workers, and not let incumbents intimidate government workers and others to vote for them. We need your knowledge, your skills and your creativity to win this election to implement effective public policy.

Public Policy- We need advisers and researchers to help us implement proven public policy programs and create new ones to:

1. Increase Employment for youth with minimal education, reading and math skills, for “returning citizens” (previous law offenders), and for hardworking honest immigrants.
2. Improve High School Education—DC has the lowest High School graduation rate (55%) in the country! for years! by changing school and neighborhood culture.
3. Stimulate Economic and Business Development, entrepreneurship, micro finance, government incentives, corporate and non-profit government cooperation.
4. provide Affordable Housing with fairness to housing developers, tenants, and construction workers
5. Stop Youth Crime waves and get youth start on a productive life’s journey.
6. Improve Health through education to prevention or cure obesity, alcoholism, substance abuse, cancer, heart disease, and dementia,
7. Eradicate the epidemic of Government corruption

Media and Campaign Operations We need, media campaign creators- videographers, PowerPoint, print, social media, speech writers, speakers, signature collectors for ballot, fundraiser and event organizers. Help conduct marketing, advertising, publicity campaign, radio spots, newspaper and print media ads, sending post cards and emails, design and distributing signs and flyers, calling voters, door to door canvassing, Help at campaign offices (e.g. with mass mailings, answer phones, run errands, IT and data entry). “Meet and Greet” Metro Stops, : Organize Town Hall Debates and Round Table discussions., Cover poles on election day. The time to apply is now and create a drug free effective government council. These are volunteer positions, unless we get funding.

Spring Communications Intern

The Communications Intern supports the Director of Communications with all public and media relations efforts – including publicity of The New Republic’s content, talent, and brand. The right candidate will be creative, passionate about news, self-motivated and possess strong writing skills. This is a wonderful opportunity to learn a lot about both the editorial and business sides of working at a magazine.

Job Responsibilities

- Write daily pitches to influential journalists and media producers
- Build press lists of journalists, bloggers, and producers for pitching purposes
- Help build media plan for each new issue of the magazine
- Attend weekly editorial and communications strategy meetings
- Closely follow the daily news cycle
- Be a close part of other, long-term communications team projects

Requirements

- Must value original, premium, long-form journalism
- Excellent communication skills
- Organized, disciplined, and strong work ethic
- Desire to work in a startup-like environment
- Ability to work a minimum of 20 hours a week

The ideal candidate would be available to start immediately and work through mid-May. This is an unpaid position based in our Washington, DC office.

Apply

Please send cover letter and resume to Annie Augustine at aaugustine@tnr.com with the subject line Communications Intern. No phone calls and no snail mail.

About The New Republic

The New Republic covers politics, culture and big ideas from an unbiased and thought-provoking perspective. Well-known for its century-old tradition of providing context and analysis beyond the daily headlines, The New Republic has been reimagined for the 21st century with fresh and compelling design across print, digital, and mobile devices.

Our purpose is not simply to tell interesting stories, but to always ask why these stories matter and tie their reporting back to our readers. To do this, The New Republic has evolved from a print magazine to become a media company that produces live events featuring our staff and other experts.

The New Republic is led by its Publisher and Editor-in-Chief, Chris Hughes. A Facebook co-founder and digital campaign strategist for the 2008 Obama Campaign, Hughes purchased The New Republic in March 2012 to help build a future for substantive journalism in a digital age.
The Cold War International History Project (CWIHP) at the Woodrow Wilson Center is currently accepting internship applications for the Summer 2014 academic semester. The Summer Application Deadline is 15 March 2014.

The Project supports the full and prompt release of historical materials by governments on all sides of the Cold War, and seeks to accelerate the process of integrating new sources, materials and perspectives from the former "communist bloc" with the historiography of the Cold War which has been written over the past few decades largely by Western scholars reliant on Western archival sources. It also seeks to transcend barriers of language, geography, and regional specialization to create new links among scholars interested in Cold War history.

Interns at the Project will assist with research at archives and libraries, editing document manuscripts, publishing, translating, and disseminating CWIHP bulletins and working papers, coordinating scholarly conferences, and answering various information requests. Interns will also assist with digitizing, describing and uploading historical documents to the CWIHP Digital Archive. Interns at CWIHP are at the forefront of the debate and research over the historiography of the Cold War and will gain valuable knowledge from interaction with CWIHP staff, Woodrow Wilson Center Fellows as well as visiting scholars.

CWIHP's internship appointments are generally consistent with academic semesters (i.e. Fall, Spring, Summer / three to four months); although appointments are made throughout the year for periods of varying length. No internship will exceed one year in duration.

Eligibility
Successful applicants should have strong research and/or administrative skills; be extremely attentive to detail; be able to work independently and as part of group; be enrolled in a degree program, have graduated, and/or have been accepted to enter an advanced degree program within the next year. Knowledge of a foreign language (especially Albanian, Bulgarian, Czech, German, Hungarian, Korean, Mandarin Chinese, Modern Hebrew, Polish, Romanian, Russian, Serbo-Croatian or Vietnamese), is helpful.

This internship with the Cold War International History Project is unpaid, though we do offer interns the opportunity to earn academic credit in accordance with their programs’ requirements. As a general rule, our office is looking for individuals who can work between 14 and 35 hours/week.

To apply, email a resume and cover letter to the Cold War International History Project at coldwar@wilsoncenter.org by the application deadline. For more information, visit: http://www.wilsoncenter.org/opportunity/internships-the-cold-war-international-history-project-1.

YOU + DEMOCRACY + SUMMER + THIS BUS.

The Democracy Fellows program is an intensive, two month-long summer bootcamp that trains the next generation of progressive young leaders to create change in their communities. Fellows work to build a more hands-on democracy, developing their leadership skills while learning and applying the principles of grassroots organizing and advocacy.

It’s a full time program, designed for hardworking young folks, college students, and recent college grads from all over the place who are passionate about civic engagement, democracy, and politics. Fellows will leave the program with the tools and skills to advocate for the issues they are passionate about, organize others to take action, and lead in their communities.

The program’s got three goals:

▪ Leaders for the long-term. Gain invaluable leadership skills, and then flex those new muscles up and down the Front Range of Colorado.

▪ Engagement that matters. Conduct on-the-ground grassroots work to impact top-level policies and make a lasting impact on Colorado’s landscape.

▪ Democracy for the win. Do the heavy lifting to create a more hands-on democracy that works for everyone.

Our summer 2014 program runs from June 9th-August 8th, and is based in Denver, Colorado. Financial stipends are available for fellows. The early decision application deadline is March 25th, and the final deadline is April 25th.

NEW POSTING!!

Interested in working at The White House?

The White House Office of National Drug Control Policy, a component in the Executive Office of the President, seeks interns in three offices for Summer 2014. All resumes and cover letters due by April 1, 2014.

OFFICE OF INTERGOVERNMENTAL & PUBLIC LIAISON (OIPL)  This office works closely with national, State, local and tribal leaders, law enforcement and substance abuse organizations to provide strategic outreach to further the Administration's policies, priorities and objectives in addressing drug policy.

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS (OLA)  This office works to advance the Administration's drug policy with the Congress through outreach to Members of Congress, involvement in Congressional hearings and the development of legislative strategies for bills and issues.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS (OPA)  This office shapes ONDCP's public message by writing speeches, talking points and other materials in support of the Director and Deputy Director; manages ONDCP's relationship with the press; represents ONDCP through official online channels and maintains the office's social media presence.

An ideal candidate would begin in May 2014 and serve with the White House through the end of the summer; the Office is open to continuing the internship into the Fall Semester as well.

Please send cover letters and resumes, as well as any questions, to Jacqueline Hackett at JHackett@ondcp.eop.gov by April 1, 2014. Clearly identify which position you are applying for (OIPL, OLA or OPA) when submitting your materials.
