The Trinity Forum is offering competitive openings for highly substantive internships. Internships are paid and offer candidates experience in non-profit strategy and operations. Interns will work alongside staff on essential projects and have the opportunity to see the results of their work incorporated into the operations of the Trinity Forum.

Interested parties should submit:

A resume;
A cover letter detailing your education, experience, and interest in a Trinity Forum internship;
One brief writing sample;
Three references.

Please submit materials to mail@ttf.org.

Kirkland & Ellis is hiring a legal assistant in our San Francisco private funds group. This is a great position for a recent graduate considering law school. Our group has an immediate need for the position, so December 2015 graduates (or prior) would probably be preferred, but I would also encourage those graduating in May 2016 to apply.

For more information on the position, please see the detailed job description on the following posting:

The Private Funds Group at Kirkland is "second to none" according to a recent survey by Chambers & Partners, which ranked Kirkland in 2015 as a Tier 1 law firm for Investment Funds in its U.S., UK, Asia-Pacific and Global rankings — making Kirkland the only law firm in the world to be considered in the top tier for each of these core jurisdictions for four years in a row. Additionally, the private funds group at Kirkland has 12 private funds attorneys ranked by Chambers 2015, more than any other Tier 1 firm.

Any interested candidates can forward their resume to my attention at ryan.buffkin@kirkland.com. Please feel free to reach out to me with any questions about the application process or to learn more about the role.

A national Democratic opposition research firm is currently looking for interns for the Summer 2016. We do research and policy work for candidates and interest groups across the country. Candidates should be at least in their sophomore year, have a strong understanding of national politics, and be able to work 35-40 hours a week. Campaign experience is a major plus, but not a requirement. This is a paid internship with a $2,000 stipend for the summer.

Anyone's who is interested can forward their resume to interns@spirosconsulting.com.

Middle East Institute
The Leadership Development Internship Program

Now Accepting Applications for the Summer 2016 Term

The Leadership Development Internship Program at the Middle East Institute is designed to provide students or recent graduates considering a career in a Middle East related field with hands-on experience in a Washington, D.C. think tank that focuses exclusively on the Middle East. Interns obtain guidance, experience, and exposure to the Washington policy and scholarly community while developing professional skills with other interns from all over the world.

Internships are available throughout the year to undergraduates who have completed at least one year of school, recent graduates, and graduate students. Positions are available on a full or part-time basis with a minimum of 20 hours per week. All internships are unpaid, though the Middle East Institute offers each intern one free language class, a one-year subscription to the Middle East Journal, a monthly travel stipend, and other benefits.

Available internships:
- Center for Turkish Studies, Publications, Development, Languages and Regional Studies, the Oman Library, Programs and Communications, and Research Assistantships for a number of MLI scholars.

To apply:
Please include the following in PDF format: cover letter, résumé, five-page writing sample, college transcript (official or unofficial), and one professional and two academic references (contact information only; no letters, please).

Application deadline for Summer 2016: March 15

Send applications and questions to:

NEW POSTING!!
The Global Economics Team of the U.S. Department of Commerce is offering a Summer 2016 internship to engage and empower developing leaders with a passion for public service. The program will expose students or recent graduates to the Federal Government and presents an exciting opportunity to work on a broad range of the Department’s international priorities.

Housed within the Office of Policy and Strategic Planning, the Global Economics Team is responsible for developing, coordinating, and implementing the Secretary’s international economic agenda, including on matters related to commercial diplomacy and trade policy and promotion. OPSP develops strategic policy priorities and provides policy counsel to the leadership of the Department of Commerce and the White House. Specifically, OPSP works with the Department’s leadership by facilitating:

Strategic Planning
· Developing strategic policy priorities
· Planning & coordinating implementation of policy initiatives that support the priorities

Policy Counsel
· Supplying timely and relevant policy advice to the Secretary and Deputy Secretary
· Providing feedback to bureau leadership with Administration and Department perspectives

Policy Coordination
· Engaging bureaus within the Department to ensure coordination and integration of policy initiatives with secretarial and Administration objectives
· Leading cross-bureau initiatives and supporting the implementation of bureau-led policy
· Offering policy input into secretarial communications and coordinating bureau policy input

Policy Outreach
· Synthesizing input and ideas from the Administration, the private sector, non-profit organizations and the academic community to inform the Department’s policy formulation process

The Internship
Interns work closely with OPSP staff to support their crucial roles in the Department’s policy formulation process. Their post within the Office of the Secretary gives them a unique perspective of the Department’s operation and the work of senior staff. Responsibilities include completing travel orders and vouchers, preparing clips on policy-priority countries, and various research projects for staff. Projects follow closely with the agenda of the Secretary of Commerce and her goals for the remaining time of the administration.

This is an unpaid opportunity. The internship is 8-10 weeks long, with the option of serving on a part-time or full-time basis. Applicants must demonstrate an interest in public policy, excellent writing skills, and strong attention to detail.

To Apply:
To apply for an internship, please send a resume and cover letter (indicating your weekly availability) to Andrew Longhi at alonghi@doc.gov. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, with priority given to those who apply before Friday, March 31st. No phone calls, please.

Applicants Must Be:
· A U.S. Citizen
· Eighteen years of age (or older) on or before the first day of the internship
· Enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program at a college, community college, or university (2-4 year institution)
NEW POSTING!!
As the summer approaches, we want to again share that internship opportunities are available at A Wider Circle. We are in the unique position of offering both direct service and behind-the-scenes internships to qualified students. We are looking for students who are passionate and committed and would like to be part of a movement to end poverty.

A Wider Circle was founded in 2001 to provide services to the most vulnerable children and adults in our nation’s capital region. The average family size of those we serve is 3.5 and the average annual income – from all sources – is $12,500. We serve the neediest of the needy. We have big goals for being a force in the movement to end poverty.

Since our founding, A Wider Circle has helped families on the journey out of poverty through the provision of basic need items, job skills training and, most recently, wraparound support. Last year, we furnished the homes of more than 4,400 families. We also are involved in multiple initiatives to build community and a movement to end poverty.

A Wider Circle is a grassroots 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that hires 10-15 unpaid interns each semester to work out of our Center for Community Service in Silver Spring. Interns are truly the lifeblood of our organization. In addition to direct service and education internships, there are business, marketing, research, and strategic planning internships available. We request that interns commit to working at least 15 hours per week. Students interested in our internships may contact us at intern@awidercircle.org for information or simply send a resume and cover letter to that address. Internships are also listed on our website www.awidercircle.org.

If you have any questions about internship opportunities with us or about our work in general, please contact me any time at 301-608-3504 or at this email address.

Thank you and best wishes –
Anne

The Accountability Lab

The Accountability Lab catalyzes a new generation of active citizens and responsible leaders around the world. We are an incubator for accountability change-makers to develop and implement innovative ideas for integrity in their communities. We train, mentor, and resource citizens to strengthen systems of accountability to unleash positive social and economic change. The Lab is also reinventing the way that organizations can function through radical transparency, oral reporting that fits the context, creative outreach campaigns, and alternative revenue models.

Internship

The Accountability Lab is recruiting a part-time intern for Spring 2015. S/he will work 20 hours per week, out of the Lab’s office in the OpenGov Hub in DC, and will be responsible for the following tasks:

- Provide writing and editing assistance for a variety of outputs including grant proposals and reports, blog posts, and articles;
- Work with senior management to develop fundraising plans and priorities;
- Contribute to the Lab’s social media, crowd-funding campaigns, monthly newsletters, and other online outreach;
- Update records in Salesforce, Excel, and Dropbox;
- Assist with event planning, and attend external events in Washington, DC to build networking relationships for the Lab.

This internship presents an exciting opportunity to gain hands-on experience helping a dynamic and innovative nonprofit grow. We will provide a modest stipend for time, travel and effort. After a three-month trial internship period, it is anticipated that this will transition into a full-time, paid position.

Qualifications

The Accountability Lab is a young organization with limited resources and significant travel for key staff, so the intern will need to be adaptable, self-motivated and able to multi-task. Beyond this, candidates for the position should be able to demonstrate the following:

- Student currently pursuing an undergraduate degree in marketing, communications, nonprofit management, international development, or a related field, in their Senior year;
- Previous experience working for a nonprofit organization, preferably in fundraising;
- Fluent in English, with strong writing skills and attention to detail;
- Significant experience using Microsoft Word and Excel, and various social media. Experience using Salesforce, Mailchimp, and Wordpress preferred.
- Interest in and understanding of Accountability Lab’s mission;

If interested, please send a cover letter, resume, and writing sample to Anne Sophie Ranjar at annesophie@accountabilitylab.org.
Congressman Raúl M. Grijalva is accepting applications for spring 2016 internships in Washington, D.C. and his various Southern Arizona district offices through May 6th.

In Washington

In the D.C. Congressional Office, interns work closely with legislative and press staff, conduct legislative outreach and research, answer office phones, distribute mail, communicate with constituents, and may have the opportunity to assist with activities in the U.S. House Natural Resources Committee (Minority). In the Natural Resources Committee, interns assist committee staff with administrative support, conducting legislative research, compiling data, and drafting correspondence. In addition, interns in both offices may attend committee hearings, briefings, and meetings.

Preference is given to students and individuals from Arizona’s 3rd Congressional District, although all qualified applicants are carefully considered. Interns are unpaid and are responsible for lodging and transportation. Applicants are highly encouraged to explore scholarship opportunities that may be offered through their respective institutions or by other programs.

Anyone interested in working in the D.C. Congressional office should submit a cover letter, resume, and a one-page writing sample to Cristina Villa, Rep. Grijalva’s internship coordinator, at Cristina.Villa@mail.house.gov. Those seeking to apply directly with the U.S. Natural Resources Committee (Minority) should indicate this in their application.

In Tucson, Somerton & Avondale

Interns at district offices help staff provide constituent services to residents of the Third Congressional District. Interns also perform administrative tasks and may be asked to work on special projects for public outreach, events and other needs of the office. Internships for the Tucson, Somerton, and Avondale offices are available at the beginning of each semester. There is no hard deadline, but earlier applications may be given priority.

Tucson District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume, and a short writing sample to Alexandra Martinez at Alexandra.Martinez@mail.house.gov.

Somerton District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume, and a short writing sample to Martha Garcia at Martha.Garcia@mail.house.gov.

Avondale District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume and a short writing sample to Jennifer Papworth at Jennifer.Papworth@mail.house.gov.

Application deadlines for the rest of 2016 are:

- Summer: May 6, 2016
- Fall: August 5, 2016

The Center for National Security Law announces its 24th National Security Law Institute to be held June 5-17, 2016, at the University of Virginia School of Law. Please share this unique educational opportunity to study the field of national security law in depth with those in your organization you believe will find the Institute of value.

The Institute was specifically designed to provide government attorneys and professors of law and related disciplines with both an overview of the field and updates on contemporary developments. This highly intensive, two-week program brings to Charlottesville some of the nation’s leading authorities from academia and government service to address more than 40 important topics of national security law. Classes address both theoretical and practical topics ranging from the origins of war and its prevention to national security legal issues involving international and domestic terrorism, cyber threats, immigration, and intelligence activities. Certain timely and controversial topics will be addressed through debates, including the recent nuclear agreement with Iran and the need for new congressional authorization for the use of military force against ISIS. The 2016 Institute e-brochure is attached.

From the very first year the large majority of Institute participants have been government lawyers working in the national security field. Government attorneys from every U.S. federal department and agency with major national security responsibilities and foreign governments on six continents have attended the Institute. Institute graduates have later served as Assistant Secretary of Homeland Security, Legal Counsel to the Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Deputy Legal Adviser to the National Security Council. Other Institute graduates now serve as Director of the Duke Law School Center for Law, Ethics and National Security, and as Director of the Robert S. Strauss Center for International Security and Law at the University of Texas at Austin. One former participant commented, "Without question, a learning environment second to none was created. This is a world-class program that simply has no peer…"

Portions of the costs of the Institute are covered by grants from non-profit foundations to the University of Virginia Law School Foundation, but there is a tuition fee of $1950.00 that helps cover textbooks, lodging, and other operational expenses. Participants are responsible for their transportation to and from Charlottesville and for most evening meals during the Institute, and other personal expenses. The full program, topics list, application, and additional information are available on the Center’s website at http://www.virginia.edu/cnsl/nsli.html. The deadline for applications is April 15, 2016.
Democratizing Global Supply Chains

Benjamin McKean, Assistant Professor of Political Science, The Ohio State University
Friday, March 11 from 1:30-3pm
Lee Siegelman Seminar Room, 4th Floor Monroe Hall

Recent dramatic injustices in the factories that assemble iPhones in China and apparel in Bangladesh have drawn attention to the global supply chains that link manufacturers to multinational brands and consumers. These supply chains are forms of governance and modes of power. The impressive mobility of multinational corporations, and the extensive dispersal of their supply chains across the globe, often leads analysts to assume that supply chains exemplify the logic of neoliberalism. However, examining the actual functioning of supply chains complicates this view. By reflecting on the way that supply chains rely on practices that run counter to neoliberalism, I develop an account of global supply chains as a political form that foregrounds their relationship to the freedom of workers and consumers. This political understanding of supply chains lays the groundwork for democratic resistance to neoliberalism more generally.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WHAT

In April 2016, more than 100 organizations representing a diverse array of movements and hundreds of thousands of people are coming together to demand a democracy that works for all of us. Join us as we converge upon Washington, D.C. for an array of actions, including demonstrations, concerts, teach-ins, a rally, lobbying, and more – all in support of a democracy in which votes are not denied and money doesn’t buy policy. This will mark an unprecedented coming together of historically separate communities and reform proposals. Together we will build a nation that is truly of, by and for the people.

WHY

American democracy is premised on the fundamental tenet of “one person, one vote,” but since the very beginning, we’ve had to fight for every voice to be heard and every vote to be counted. Today an array of barriers are keeping regular Americans shut out of the political process, from restrictive voting laws suppressing the voting rights of people of color, students, and low-income Americans, to a campaign finance landscape that allows big money to increasingly shape elections and the policy-making process. On both voting rights and money in politics, Congress has solutions in front of them, but has so far failed to pass them into law. It’s time for us to come together and claim a democracy where every voice is heard and every vote counts equally.

THE PLAN

From April 16-18, join us for three days of protest, education, music and cultural exchange in Washington, D.C. Here’s the plan:

• Saturday, April 16 – Teach, Learn, Transform: Saturday will feature teach-ins and workshops by powerful leaders from around the country who will inspire us as we build a movement to fight back against the attacks on democracy. We’ll have a cultural hub where people can gather to create art and inspire change. Saturday night will feature a large event to bring us together in the lead up to Sunday's Rally for Democracy.

• Sunday, April 17 – Rally for Democracy: Join thousands of people in a march and rally at the U.S. Capitol, where we’ll mobilize in mass to call for solutions that protect the people’s right to vote and prevent our voices from being drowned out by big money.

• Monday, April 18 – Congress of Conscience Day of Action: Join activists on Capitol Hill for a day of advocacy and lobbying to encourage our representatives to champion critical voting rights and money in politics reform measures. Advocates from around the country will meet with elected officials and their staff in support of legislation to: restore the protections of the Voting Rights Act; modernize voter registration and ensure equal access to voting for all; overturn Supreme Court decisions like Citizens United so we can get big money out of politics; and empower small donors in our democracy.

GET INVOLVED

As an individual or an organization, there are many ways to get involved, and we need your voice in this movement. Visit http://democracyawakening.org for more information, or contact info@democracyawakening.org.
