NEW POSTING!!

After graduation, how will you launch a high-impact career in Washington, DC?

Historically, students in the District of Columbia have not had access to an equitable education that adequately prepares them for college and a career. DC Teaching Fellows trains recent college graduates and talented professionals to become exceptional, certified teachers. Because of the high stakes for DC students, our rigorous training program expects a tremendous amount of our new teachers. Our fast-paced program focuses on the essential skills that teachers need most to start strong. Teachers will repeatedly practice foundational classroom management and instructional techniques, receive direct feedback from skilled coaches, and must pass an evaluation in order to be eligible to start teaching in the fall.

Do you have what it takes to join this elite group of educators? Apply here – our final application deadline is April 11th.

At USF, every one of our staff members is dedicated to creating change in the world of international education. Our staff work on projects they are passionate about, in order to build and shape the future of higher education. We believe that every staff member should work on projects and ideas that fascinate them. On our team, you will have the freedom to choose projects that fall within your areas of interest, and to receive professional development opportunities. Because of our values and organizational model, we do not hire staff for specific open positions. Instead, we hire individuals who impress us with outstanding passion, a strong work ethic, and a deep, enduring interest in making the future of education better and more attainable around the globe. Once a staff member has been hired, they will be placed on teams relevant to their interests and passions. We are currently hiring both Interns and full-time Staff Members for the Summer of 2016. This is an exciting opportunity to work with a start-up before and during the launch process, to contribute ideas which may shift the future of the company, and to join an energetic, dedicated, and innovative community of young minds.

If you are interested in applying for the intern or full-time position, please do so from http://www.universalstudentfund.org/careers.html.

American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network has a paid internship. Here is a direct link to the job description and application website

HOUSE MAJORITY PAC SUMMER INTERNSHIP

House Majority PAC is seeking part-time and/or full-time interns to work on communications, digital, finance, and operations related items.

House Majority PAC is an independent-expenditure only committee (often called a “Super PAC”) that is designed to hold Republicans accountable and help win back the House Majority for Democrats. House Majority PAC is committed to building a long-term organization that can take on the Republican outside groups in the battle for the House Majority.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

- Research prospective donors
- Assist in maintaining donor and contribution databases and spreadsheets
- Develop knowledge of relevant campaign finance laws
- Compile daily news clips, in addition to reviewing and transcribing video footage
- Assist with the development, research, writing, and editing of communications and digital content
- Review and respond to general inquiries
- Special projects as needed

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS, AND ABILITIES DESIRED:

- Demonstrated commitment to promoting Democratic values and causes
- Prior experience working with Democratic campaign and party committees or politically-oriented progressive non-profits helpful, but not required
- Strong and demonstrated computer skills, including proficiency with Microsoft Office suite, (especially Word, Excel and PowerPoint)
- Well-versed in internet research, with a solid understanding of social media
- Solid verbal, written, research, and interpersonal skills
- Excellent organizational skills with keen attention to detail
- Sense of humor, ability to have fun, and an interest in working within a high-performing team environment

TO APPLY

Applicants should email a cover letter and resume with the subject line “Internship – YOUR NAME” to internship@thehousemajoritypac.com. No calls, please.

The internship is unpaid and based in Washington, DC. A travel stipend is available.

House Majority PAC is an equal opportunity employer. We believe that employees from diverse backgrounds are critical to achieving our goals. We seek to recruit, develop, and retain the most talented people from a diverse candidate pool, and consider applicants for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, marital status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

The NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries currently has three openings for volunteer interns at our headquarters office in Silver Spring, Maryland. Internships may count towards course credit and our office has previously hosted interns through the Washington Semester program.

Applications are accepted on a rolling basis. Applicants can anticipate a May or June 2016 start date. To apply, please email a cover letter, 1-2-page writing sample and a resume.

Constituent & Legislative Affairs Volunteer Internship:

We invite you to join a dedicated and enthusiastic team at the NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries where you will gain invaluable resume-building experience and an insider’s perspective from the nation’s leader in ocean conservation and management. The NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries conducts outreach with members of Congress and constituent groups on key issues, such as marine conservation, climate change and maritime heritage. As a volunteer intern, you will assist with constituent and congressional outreach efforts. We are looking for motivated self-starters who enjoy both independent and collaborative work. The ideal candidate for this volunteer position will possess a strong academic background and the desire to immerse oneself in the world of marine communications and the internal workings of a federal office. Please contact grace.bottitta@noaa.gov.

Media Relations Volunteer Internship:

We invite you to join a dedicated and enthusiastic team at the NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries where you will gain invaluable resume-building experience and an insider’s perspective from the nation’s leader in ocean conservation and management. The Communications Team produces and distributes NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries messages through a variety of channels to a diverse audience – agency departments, news media and the public. As a volunteer intern, you will have the opportunity to participate in staff meetings; fine-tune writing, editing and proofreading skills; develop targeted media lists and media kits; learn media outreach strategies. Strong research and writing skills are a must, along with knowledge of social media trends and best practices. Please contact vernon.smith@noaa.gov.

Destination Marketing and Outdoor Recreation Intern:

As a volunteer intern, you will work with the Communications and Stewardship group to implement NOAA Office of National Marine Sanctuaries Travel & Tourism Strategy and enhance visibility of responsible recreation opportunities in national marine sanctuaries. Relevant support tasks will include, but are not limited to, development of topical factsheets and articles for various audiences, outreach to travel bloggers and convention and visitors bureaus, and attendance at agency meetings. This is an exciting opportunity to explore sanctuary connections to the outdoor recreation and ecotourism industries in both public and private sectors, and assist in ensuring that ONMS place-based conservation efforts are recognized and publicized in local and interagency arenas. Competitive candidates will have good communication skills and an interest in parks and recreation management, tourism development, or marine affairs. Please contact chiara.zuccarino-crowe@noaa.gov.

Survey Design and Data Analysis
Graduate Certificate Program

GW’s Survey Design and Data Analysis graduate certificate program is one of only a few programs of its kind in the nation geared toward working professionals across many disciplines. Students acquire expertise to manage all phases of the survey process in corporate, association, or government agency settings. In addition to teaching skills needed for today’s changing survey research field, the program prepares students for further graduate study.

Survey Design and Data Analysis is part of the university’s renowned Department of Statistics, the first department of its kind in the country. Located in the heart of the nation’s capital, nearby government agencies and private companies employ a number of graduates and generate a high level of statistical activities and internship opportunities. The department boasts a strong record of statistical education and research, an internationally acclaimed faculty, and highly successful alumni.

Program Highlights
- Curriculum builds skills in sampling and designing surveys, collection and analyzing data, and critically analyzing public opinion
- Classes held on weekday evenings, designed for working professionals
- Convenient location at the Alexandria Graduate Education Center, near the King Street Metro
- Four-course program (12 credits) can be completed as quickly as two semesters

Curriculum
- STAT 6233 Questionnaire Design
- STAT 6234 Statistical Computing Packages for Survey Research
- STAT 6236 Applied Sampling Techniques for Survey Research
- STAT 6238 Survey Management

Apply Now
Applications are processed on a rolling basis, but it is recommended you apply by the fall deadline of August 1st or the Spring deadline of December 1st. No GRE or MAT scores are required; however, if you have not used statistics recently, we recommend taking a course in statistics prior to entering the program. Two recommendations are required along with all prior academic records from all colleges and universities attended. A statement of purpose and current resumé or curriculum vita are also required for admission into the graduate certificate program.

The Center for National Security Law announces its 24th National Security Law Institute to be held June 5-17, 2016, at the University of Virginia School of Law. Please share this unique educational opportunity to study the field of national security law in depth with those in your organization you believe will find the Institute of value.

The Institute was specifically designed to provide government attorneys and professors of law and related disciplines with both an overview of the field and updates on contemporary developments. This highly intensive, two-week program brings to Charlottesville some of the nation’s leading authorities from academia and government service to address more than 40 important topics of national security law. Classes address both theoretical and practical topics ranging from the origins of war and its prevention to national security legal issues involving international and domestic terrorism, cyber threats, immigration, and intelligence activities. Certain timely and controversial topics will be addressed through debates, including the recent nuclear agreement with Iran and the need for new congressional authorization for the use of military force against ISIS.

From the very first year the large majority of Institute participants have been government lawyers working in the national security field. Government attorneys from every U.S. federal department and agency with major national security responsibilities and foreign governments on six continents have attended the Institute. Institute graduates have later served as Assistant Secretary of Homeland Security, Legal Counsel to the Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Deputy Legal Adviser to the National Security Council. Other Institute graduates now serve as Director of the Duke Law School Center for Law, Ethics and National Security, and as Director of the Robert S. Strauss Center for International Security and Law at the University of Texas at Austin. One former participant commented, “Without question, a learning environment second to none was created. This is a world-class program that simply has no peer…”

Portions of the costs of the Institute are covered by grants from non-profit foundations to the University of Virginia Law School Foundation, but there is a tuition fee of $1950.00 that helps cover textbooks, lodging, and other operational expenses. Participants are responsible for their transportation to and from Charlottesville and for most evening meals during the Institute, and other personal expenses.

The full program, topics list, application, and additional information are available on the Center’s website at http://www.virginia.edu/cnsl/nsli.html. The deadline for applications is April 15, 2016.
STRATEGIC CORPORATE RESEARCH SUMMER SCHOOL, June 12-17, 2016

The AFL-CIO and Cornell University are sponsoring a Strategic Corporate Research Summer School on June 12-17, 2016 in Ithaca, New York. The application deadline is April 29. The course is designed for students and others who want to make corporations accountable by working as researchers in unions and social change organizations. The course offers a regular track and an advanced track with an additional research and writing requirement. It is open to individuals applying on their own and to individuals sponsored by unions and other organizations. Partial scholarships are available to non-sponsored individuals who opt for the advanced track. Inquire if interested in obtaining course credit. For more info, email sersummer@cornell.edu, call 607-269-7246, or go to the course website: https://www.ilr.cornell.edu/worker-institute/education-training/strategic-corporate-research-summer-course

Selecting a Vice President: Balancing Politics and Prudence

Friday, April 22, 2016
9:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. ET

The vice president is “one heartbeat” away from the presidency, yet presidential nominees entrusted with extraordinary responsibility for this choice only have a short time to find, vet, and select their running mates. Politics will be a part of that decision, but the selection must be capable of taking on the key role that vice presidents have increasingly come to play, and able to assume the office of president if necessary.

With BPC’s guidance, a panel of experts with experience in different facets of the vice presidential selection process have been meeting to consider the challenges that face presidential candidates in making this decision. At this event, they will present for discussion their conclusions and actionable recommendations for the campaigns to consider as the time for this critical choice rapidly approaches.

My name is Teddi Zuckerman and I am a clinical psychology doctoral student at The George Washington University working with Dr. George Howe. We are conducting a research study to better understand the transition out of college.

I would appreciate if you could forward this email to any undergraduate students who may be interested in participating in our study.

Students are eligible to participate in the study if they (a) are between the ages of 18 and 25, (b) are on track to graduate with an undergraduate degree in less than 365 days, and (c) have a parent or step-parent who is able to participate in a scheduled 10 minute phone call during which the student will discuss the upcoming transition out of college with their parent.

Participants will complete a computer-based survey lasting for 20-25 minutes. They will then take part in a discussion with their selected parent over the phone, lasting 10 minutes.

As compensation for their time and effort required to complete the study, participants will be given $25.

Participation in the study is voluntary and your decision to participate or not will be kept private.

Please contact the research team if you are interested in participating in the study at transitionstudygwu@gmail.com. Please also feel free to contact Teddi Zuckerman (transitionstudygwu@gmail.com) or her faculty advisor Dr. Howe (ghowe@gwu.edu) if you have any questions about the study.

WHAT

In April 2016, more than 100 organizations representing a diverse array of movements and hundreds of thousands of people are coming together to demand a democracy that works for all of us. Join us as we converge upon Washington, D.C. for an array of actions, including demonstrations, concerts, teach-ins, a rally, lobbying, and more – all in support of a democracy in which votes are not denied and money doesn't buy policy. This will mark an unprecedented coming together of historically separate communities and reform proposals. Together we will build a nation that is truly of, by and for the people.

WHY

American democracy is premised on the fundamental tenet of “one person, one vote,” but since the very beginning, we’ve had to fight for every voice to be heard and every vote to be counted. Today an array of barriers are keeping regular Americans shut out of the political process, from restrictive voting laws suppressing the voting rights of people of color, students, and low-income Americans, to a campaign finance landscape that allows big money to increasingly shape elections and the policy-making process. On both voting rights and money in politics, Congress has solutions in front of them, but has so far failed to pass them into law. It’s time for us to come together and claim a democracy where every voice is heard and every vote counts equally.

THE PLAN

From April 16-18, join us for three days of protest, education, music and cultural exchange in Washington, D.C. Here’s the plan:

- Saturday, April 16 – Teach, Learn, Transform: Saturday will feature teach-ins and workshops by powerful leaders from around the country who will inspire us as we build a movement to fight back against the attacks on democracy. We’ll have a cultural hub where people can gather to create art and inspire change. Saturday night will feature a large event to bring us together in the lead up to Sunday’s Rally for Democracy.

- Sunday, April 17 – Rally for Democracy: Join thousands of people in a march and rally at the U.S. Capitol, where we’ll mobilize in mass to call for solutions that protect the people’s right to vote and prevent our voices from being drowned out by big money.

- Monday, April 18 – Congress of Conscience Day of Action: Join activists on Capitol Hill for a day of advocacy and lobbying to encourage our representatives to champion critical voting rights and money in politics reform measures. Advocates from around the country will meet with elected officials and their staff in support of legislation to: restore the protections of the Voting Rights Act; modernize voter registration and ensure equal access to voting for all; overturn Supreme Court decisions like Citizens United so we can get big money out of politics; and empower small donors in our democracy.

GET INVOLVED

As an individual or an organization, there are many ways to get involved, and we need your voice in this movement. Visit http://democracyawakening.org for more information, or contact info@democracyawakening.org.
