NEW POSTING!!
The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) is recruiting this fall for the Director’s Financial Analyst position, and we want to encourage graduating seniors in your department to apply. I hope you will take the time to pass this information along.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM
This unique, two-year rotational fellowship sits at the intersection of the federal government and the financial services industry. Director’s Financial Analysts are given the opportunity to hone analytical and problem solving skills while helping to make markets for consumer financial products work for Americans. Members of the Director’s Financial Analyst Program will experience diverse roles, responsibilities, and areas of expertise. As a result, in a short period of time, analysts will play an integral role in everything the CFPB does, from rigorous data-driven policy creation and market monitoring to on-site supervision of market participants. All analysts will complete developmental rotations in offices throughout the CFPB. These rotations are designed to provide exposure to the analysis, strategy, research, education, policy development, supervision, enforcement, and rulemaking activities throughout the Bureau.
We are recruiting for positions that begin after the 2016-2017 academic year.

Previous Director's Financial Analysts have used the program as a springboard to further their careers. Some graduates of the program have moved on to:

- Graduate school (Columbia Economics, Harvard Business, Yale Law)
- Private industry (Amazon, Uber, Wells Fargo)
- Public sector (Department of the Treasury, NY Fed)

HOW TO APPLY
We are currently accepting resumes through our posting on the career center website. However, the official application can be found here during the following open application windows:

Window 1: September 16 - September 20

Window 2: October 13 - October 17

AARP is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization, with a membership of nearly 38 million that helps people turn their goals and dreams into 'Real Possibilities' by changing the way America defines aging. With staffed offices in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands, AARP works to strengthen communities and promote the issues that matter most to families such as healthcare security, financial security and personal fulfillment. AARP also advocates for individuals in the marketplace by selecting products and services of high quality and value to carry the AARP name. As a trusted source for news and information, AARP produces the world's largest circulation magazine, AARP The Magazine and AARP Bulletin.

The Community, State and National Affairs (CSNA) team is a key contributor to AARP's mission of social change for Americans 50+ and their families. CSNA drives social change through our advocacy work by giving our members a voice—at the federal, state, local levels and community levels—on issues important to them such as Financial Resilience, Health Security, and Personal Fulfillment.

With a network of 53 offices in each state, the US Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, we live where we work. This allows us to do what we do best…meet the people and directly engage in our communities to find out what they need and want, enabling us to educate our members with programs and information that is relevant to them.

Our state offices work hand-in-glove with AARP's national office in Washington, DC. This reach—from community to state to federal – enables CSNA to better empower people 50+ to enjoy the way they live and work today, while reaching their goals for tomorrow…their life – their way.

Responsibilities

Provides assistance to the Campaign Outreach team, focusing on social media support:

2. Assist with creation and implementation of employee communications editorial calendar for campaigns.
3. Compile weekly social media analytics data and various weekly, monthly, and quarterly reports.
4. Assist onsite at Campaigns events in DC, as necessary.

Requirements

Editorial Internship

SAGE is an international academic publisher of books, online reference products, journals, and textbooks across the social sciences. This fall internship offers an opportunity to work with the online library editorial team, which publishes print and electronic content for college and university libraries. The intern will support a team of editors to research, build, and maintain online products. In particular, this intern will work primarily with our online statistical suite of products for the academic library market (with work on political, demographic, and business-related topics). There may also be opportunities to work on other projects primarily in the business and management field.

Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Analyzing and preparing content for online publication, including data harvesting and formatting
- Researching potential content sources for inclusion in online products
- Creating data visualizations and accompanying narrative descriptions
- Performing accuracy and quality control tasks
- Serving as a test user of product websites and offering constructive feedback
- Evaluating and discussing web site functionality

We are looking for someone who is extremely detail-oriented, an independent worker, and a quick learner. Applicants must be currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program, preferably in the social sciences or business and management. Applicants should have experience using Excel and be comfortable working in it on a regular basis.

We can offer up to 20 hours per week through December. Interns will be expected to work at SAGE’s DC office (2600 Virginia Ave. NW). This is a paid internship. If you are interested, please send your cover letter and resume to Diana Aleman at diana.aleman@sagepub.com

Food Policy Action
Fall Semester 2016 Internship Posting

Food Policy Action works to raise the profile of food issues and hold Congress accountable for their votes and support of food and farming issues. FPA highlights the importance of federal food policy and promotes policies that support healthy diets, reduce hunger at home and abroad, improve food access and affordability, uphold the rights and dignity of food and farm workers, increase transparency, improve public health, reduce the risk of food-borne illness, support local and regional food systems, protect and maintain sustainable fisheries, treat farm animals humanely and reduce the environmental impact of farming and food production. Through education and publication of the National Food Policy Scorecard, FPA aims to promote positive policies and give voters the tools to elect better food leaders.

Food Policy Action is seeking an intern for 30-40 hours per week for the fall semester to support operations in our offices in Washington, D.C. There may be a stipend available to support living expenses during this internship.

Responsibilities — FPA is a small, fast-paced nonprofit, and as such the specific responsibilities will evolve with the position. Anticipated responsibilities for an intern include:

- Daily monitoring of media for news about FPA, its allies, and food policy news
- Creating daily social media content to help FPA maintain an active social media presence
- Assisting in production and release of the National Food Policy Scorecard: 114th Congress
- Monitoring legislation and Congressional developments through Congress.gov, House and Senate committees, and House and Senate floor action
- Conducting position-specific research as needed
- Assist in executing events as needed

Desired Skills—The ideal intern candidate will possess skills and experience in:

- Microsoft Office programs, including Excel, Word, and Powerpoint
- Google programs, including email, spreadsheets, and calendars
- Familiarity with the legislative process and basic knowledge of food and agriculture issues
- Producing written and verbal communication that is clear and professional
- Basic databases and data management

Desired Qualities:

- Interest in learning about food and agriculture policy and the management of nonprofit organizations
- Passion for improving the food system
- Ability to work independently or in a team as the situation requires
- Initiative to manage time, prioritize tasks, and communicate about your schedule
- Ability to receive constructive feedback and learn accordingly
- Attention to detail to correctly update and maintain crucial databases and documents

If interested in this internship position, please send a resume, cover letter, writing sample, and any schedule or availability constraints (start/end date, school schedule) to Karen Spangler (karen@foodpolicyaction.org).

SCHOLARSHIPS TO STUDY ABROAD

Experience a new world and expand your opportunities by studying in another country. International exchange programs give you the opportunity to establish long-lasting ties with people around the globe, promote mutual understanding, develop leadership skills, and enhance your educational achievements.

ACADEMIC YEAR PROGRAMS

The YOUTH EXCHANGE AND STUDY ABROAD (YES ABROAD) program advances mutual understanding between the United States and countries with significant Muslim populations by sending American students (ages 15-18) to countries with significant Muslim populations for one academic year. Students study in local high schools and live with a host family in countries in the Middle East, Africa, Asia, and the Balkans. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

Spend an academic year in Germany living with a host family and attending a German school on the CONGRESS BUNDESTAG YOUTH EXCHANGE PROGRAM (CBYX) for high school students (ages 15-18), graduating seniors of vocational studies (age 18), and young professionals (undergraduates ages 18-24). All students attend a four to eight-week orientation and language camp. Vocational and young professional students study and participate in practical internships. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

LANGUAGE PROGRAMS

Learn a new language on the NATIONAL SECURITY LANGUAGE INITIATIVE FOR YOUTH (NSLI-Y) program, part of a multi-agency U.S. government initiative to improve Americans’ ability to engage with people from around the world who speak Arabic, Chinese (Mandarin), Hindi, Korean, Persian (Tajik), Russian and Turkish. Study abroad on summer and academic-year programs where the languages are widely spoken. NSLI-Y students reside with host families while pursuing intensive language study, providing both informal and formal opportunities for language practice with native speakers. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

SHORT-TERM EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Travel abroad for 3-4 weeks to gain firsthand knowledge of foreign cultures and to collaborate on solving global issues through the AMERICAN YOUTH LEADERSHIP PROGRAM (AYLP). Current AYLP programs operate in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Cambodia, Malaysia/Singapore, Paraguay, Peru, Samoa, and Uganda. Some programs draw from a national applicant pool; others may be limited to a region or group of states. Also available are reciprocal Youth Leadership Programs; you may host an exchange participant as well as travel abroad. Current projects are with Indonesia, Central Europe, Poland, Nepal/Sri Lanka, Azerbaijan, and Central/South America. Application dates vary by program.

The American Enterprise Institute in Washington, DC, is home to some of America’s most renowned public policy scholars. A nonpartisan public policy research organization, AEI is dedicated to preserving and strengthening the foundations of a free society through independent thinking, open debate, and reasoned argument. It does this in part by providing educational and career development opportunities to the next generation of leaders through its Executive Council Program.

Why join an AEI Executive Council?

- Promote substantive conversations about public policy on campus by hosting events and activities throughout the year such as lectures or discussions with AEI scholars or local professors, private dinners with scholars or business professionals, student debates, reading groups, and film and debate viewings.

- Strengthen your leadership ability and public policy knowledge with the help and support of AEI.

- Attend exclusive gatherings for public policy discussion and leadership training at AEI’s headquarters in Washington, DC, and other locations around the country.

- Connect with former students and alumni of AEI’s Academic Programs to explore career opportunities in the world of public policy.

- Join AEI’s nationwide student network through AEI Connect, a new platform that allows undergraduates interested in learning more about public policy to connect with one another and to AEI.
Don't just read sources. Start being one.

Interested in getting published? The Southern California International Review (SCIR) is now accepting outstanding submissions for publication in our Fall 2017 issue. The submission deadline will be September 18th. Early submissions are appreciated. Visit us online (http://www.scir.org) to see submission details and enter your work.

As a global research journal for international affairs, the Southern California International Review provides undergraduates with the opportunity to have their work seen by the international affairs community at large. Managed and edited by students at USC, the Review publishes academic-grade research from undergraduates around the world. Each semester the Review evaluates submissions and selects up to six full-length works to be printed in the journal and displayed in the online edition. Past editions have pieces from Georgetown, Australian National University, Boston College, USC and other top international affairs programs.

A few criteria:
- Must be between 3,000-10,000 words
- Must be submitted in .doc or .docx format
- Must include a title page with an abstract
- Must use a consistent citation format (e.g. MLA or Chicago)

To view our most recent issue and find out more, please visit www.scir.org and follow us on Facebook.

Latino college students are invited to join the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) and participate in a Career Shadowing Day during Hispanic Heritage Month. This is an excellent opportunity for students to get an overview of NCUA’s mission and connect with professionals who are open to sharing their work experiences and career paths. Students with an interest in finance, accounting, economics, HR, IT, law, business or marketing are encouraged to register.

Date: Wednesday, September 21, 2016
Time: 8:00am - 4:30pm (lunch will be provided)
Location: National Credit Union Administration - Alexandria, VA

Please see the attached flyer for more information, or feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

To register or for more information, contact: Michelle Neuenschwander at michelle@hispanicaccess.org or 703-989-9494. Please include your name, contact information, and choice of major or field of interest.
The application for the 2016 - 2017 Undergraduate Law Review is already here! For those of you who may not know, The George Washington University Undergraduate Law Review (ULR) is a prestigious student-run publication that offers undergraduates the unique chance to research, write, and edit a law review article on a legal topic of their choosing. The year-long process involves many stages of topic investigation, legal research, draft writing, and editing, and our editors and writers will even learn the Legal Bluebook citation method (something typically not taught until law school). At the end of the year, writers will have a fantastic writing sample that they can use to apply for jobs and internships, as well as a publication to add to their resume.

You can also apply to be an editor for the publication, which means you will be assigned to different writers' articles throughout the year, and help them get to publishable quality. Editors are essential, since without them, our publication would not succeed in having the high-quality material we expect. You may apply to write, edit, or both, which you can indicate on the application itself.

The application includes filling out the form and submitting a writing sample that demonstrates your skills (if you are applying for the writer position). Make sure to choose a writing sample that is a college-level essay or written assignment, or a high school level essay if you are a freshman.

For more information, please visit our website, where you will also find downloadable PDFs of every ULR that has been published since the organization's founding in 2009. You can also read testimonials from last year's writers here. We look forward to reviewing your application!
