Mintz Levin’s Project Analyst Program offers recent college graduates the opportunity to engage in challenging and interesting work in a fast-paced environment. During their two-year tenure, Analysts gain practical experience and valuable exposure to both law and business. Project Analysts work under the guidance of attorneys and senior staff to meet the needs of clients by drafting reports, conducting legal research, analyzing financial data, tracking regulatory activity, and monitoring industry trends. Analysts coordinate and participate in many of the firm’s pro bono and community service initiatives. While many Project Analysts go on to attend law school, the program’s alumni have also gone on to careers in banking, medicine, journalism, and consulting. The Project Analyst program currently has 14 analysts in our Boston, New York, and D.C. offices who work in more than a dozen practice areas, including corporate and securities, litigation, labor and employment, health law, immigration, and energy technology. Analysts also have the opportunity to work with Mintz Levin’s government affairs and lobbying affiliate, ML Strategies, in the Boston and D.C. offices.

Internships

NEW POSTING!!
Washington, D.C. – Congressman Raúl M. Grijalva is currently accepting applications for spring 2017 internships in Washington, D.C. and his various Southern Arizona district offices.

The deadline to apply for these positions is Thursday, November 10th

In Washington

In the D.C. Congressional Office, interns work closely with legislative and press staff, conduct legislative outreach and research, answer office phones, distribute mail, communicate with constituents, and may have the opportunity to assist with activities in the U.S. House Natural Resources Committee. In the Natural Resources Committee, interns assist committee staff with administrative support, conducting legislative research, compiling data, and drafting correspondence. In addition, interns in both offices may attend committee hearings, briefings, and meetings.

Preference is given to students and individuals from Arizona’s 3rd Congressional District, although all qualified applicants are carefully considered. Interns are unpaid and are responsible for lodging and transportation. Applicants are highly encouraged to explore scholarship opportunities that may be offered through their respective institutions or by other programs.

Anyone interested in working in the D.C. Congressional office should submit a cover letter, resume, and a one-page writing sample to Cristina Villa, Rep. Grijalva’s Internship Coordinator, at Cristina.Villa@mail.house.gov. Those seeking to apply directly with the U.S. Natural Resources Committee should indicate this in their application.

In Tucson, Somerton & Avondale

Interns at district offices help staff provide constituent services to residents of the Third Congressional District. Interns also perform administrative tasks and may be asked to work on special projects for public outreach, events and other needs of the office. Internships for the Tucson, Somerton, and Avondale offices are available at the beginning of each semester. There is no hard deadline, but earlier applications may be given priority.

Tucson District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume, and a short writing sample to Alexandra Martinez at Alexandra.Martinez@mail.house.gov.

Somerton District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume, and a short writing sample to Martha Garcia at Martha.Garcia@mail.house.gov.

Avondale District Office – Submit an application form, cover letter, resume and a short writing sample to Jennifer Papworth at Jennifer.Papworth@mail.house.gov.

Frequently Asked Questions

Who is eligible to apply?
High school seniors, college students, and recent graduates are encouraged to apply. Preference is given to those with Oregon residency or ties to Oregon. Our office is committed to assigning our interns to policy areas that interest them.

When do internships begin and end?
The D.C. and Beaverton offices offer internships for summer, autumn and winter/spring terms. The hours are flexible and can accommodate academic course schedules for both quarter and semester terms.

Is the internship paid? Where will I live if I intern in D.C.?
All internships are unpaid. Housing is not provided. The D.C. Intern Coordinator can provide you with a list of places where interns often find housing.

When should I expect to hear back about my application?
The Intern Coordinators make every effort to reply promptly once an application is submitted. If you are concerned about the status of your application, please call the D.C. or Beaverton office.

Who can I contact with other questions?

Job Description

Title: Public Affairs Intern

Location: Washington, D.C.

Time Commitment: Full/Part Time

Description:

Prism Group is an independent public affairs firm with locations in Prague, London, and Washington, D.C. Our team understands that in today’s global environment, having connectivity from home markets to the major regulatory centers is paramount. Through creative communications, influential strategic alliances, and activating stakeholders we reframe narratives, influence public opinion, and impact policy.

At Prism Group, you will get hands-on experiences in integrated PR practices. We are looking for a candidate with strong communications and writing skills, and who is interested in challenging work and a dynamic career. The candidate will develop an understanding on a wide range of business, political, and economic issues in the U.S., Brussels, and Central & Eastern Europe, where our firm operates.

Responsibilities include supporting the firm’s communications team:

- Prepare daily media clips for our clients
- Draft op-eds, press releases and briefing documents
- Support for web-related projects, including blogging and social media
- Collate press lists and learn how to pitch to media
- Assist colleagues in editing case studies
- Conduct basic administrative duties

If you are interested in a fall internship with Prism Group, please send your resume and cover letter to Kenny Cunningham at kc@prismstrategygroup.com.

Public Policy Externship. This externship is available to undergraduates, grad students, and law students. These positions require the ability to commit to a full time (30 – 40 hrs per week) position based in our Washington D.C. Office for the Fall 2016 term.

- Available to: Undergrad (seniors), Grad, and Law Students
- Location: Washington D.C.
- Term: Full Time; Spring 2017
- Duration: mid-January through late-May
- Application Deadline: 09/16/2016

Privacy Externship. This externship is available to law students specializing in Privacy issues. These positions require the ability to commit to at least 20-30 hours per week in our Washington D.C. Office.

- Available to: Law Students only
- Location: Washington D.C.
- Term: Full Time; Spring 2017
- Duration: mid-January through late-May
- Application Deadline: 09/16/2016

Please note: Because of the high volume of applications that we receive, we are unable to respond directly to each candidate. If an applicant is selected for an interview, he/she will be contacted directly by our externship coordinator. For any other questions, applicants are encouraged to email DC-Externships@fb.com.
Office of the Secretary
Department of the Interior

Internship Description:
The Department of the Interior protects and manages the Nation’s natural resources and cultural heritages; provides scientific and other information about those resources; and honors its trust responsibilities or special commitments to American Indians, Alaska Natives, and affiliated island-communities. Interns in the Office of the Secretary will work to assist a multi-disciplinary team of professionals who oversee a large portfolio of cultural, environmental, and administrative projects. As a part of their internship, Office of the Secretary interns can expect to acquire a general knowledge and understanding of DOI, work under the guidance of senior staff, and assist DOI staff with meaningful projects relevant to their area of interest and level of experience. There are also a limited number of opportunities in other offices that are available on an as needed basis.

Potential duties and responsibilities of interns in the Office of the Secretary include, but are not limited to:

- Providing administrative support to the Office of the Secretary’s front office operations such as greeting guests, answering phones, and assisting with office management projects.
- Assisting DOI staff in developing reports, briefings, and memorandums.
- Assisting DOI staff with planning and staffing upcoming meetings and events.
- Assisting DOI staff in preparing talking points, contact lists, reference lists, and presentations.

Eligibility:
- Applicants should be available to work a minimum of 20 hours per week.
- Applicants must be currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program at a college, community college, or university (two-to-four-year institution)

Application:
- Please send your resume to: romen_borellino@ios.doi.gov
- Please indicate your start date availability and weekly hours of availability.
Upcoming Events/Announcements

The Journal of Politics & International Affairs (JPIA) is seeking qualified student submissions to be published in the Fall 2016 issue. JPIA is a student-run journal that publishes papers written by undergraduate students in the areas of Political Science, International Studies, Economics, Public Affairs, Sociology, and related fields. Publication in the Journal is an opportunity to reach a wider audience outside of the class, as well as a learning experience through the editing and feedback process. We seek to publish high quality papers that address current events and relevant subjects in the area of politics and international affairs. Ideal submissions are both informative and argumentative, with well-developed theses and strong mechanics.

The Journal typically publishes original research, theses, and essays written for upper-level courses although all majors and class ranks are invited.

If this opportunity is of interest to you, we highly encourage you to submit a paper for publication on our website at http://u.osu.edu/jpia/submit-manuscript/. The deadline is October 14th, 2016, and submissions are reviewed on a rolling basis. We have recently updated our submission guidelines, which can be found here: http://u.osu.edu/jpia/submission-guidelines/, and ask you to carefully review them before submitting.

The Editorial Board at Oakland University would like to announce a call for manuscripts for the Pi Sigma Alpha Undergraduate Journal of Politics. The Journal welcomes submissions from undergraduates of any class or major. The Journal strives to publish manuscripts of the highest quality in all areas of political science. In general, papers selected for publication have been well-written with a well-developed thesis, compelling argument, and original analysis. The deadline for the fall 2016 issue is October 1, 2016. More information here: http://www.psajournal.org/

The M.A. Program in Climate and Society is a twelve-month interdisciplinary Master of Arts program that trains professionals and academics to understand and cope with the impacts of climate variability and climate change on society and the environment. SCHOLARSHIPS TO STUDY ABROAD

Experience a new world and expand your opportunities by studying in another country. International exchange programs give you the opportunity to establish long-lasting ties with people around the globe, promote mutual understanding, develop leadership skills, and enhance your educational achievements.

ACADEMIC YEAR PROGRAMS

The YOUTH EXCHANGE AND STUDY ABROAD (YES ABROAD) program advances mutual understanding between the United States and countries with significant Muslim populations by sending American students (ages 15-18) to countries with significant Muslim populations for one academic year. Students study in local high schools and live with a host family in countries in the Middle East, Africa, Asia, and the Balkans. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

Spend an academic year in Germany living with a host family and attending a German school on the CONGRESS BUNDESTAG YOUTH EXCHANGE PROGRAM (CBYX) for high school students (ages 15-18), graduating seniors of vocational studies (age 18), and young professionals (undergraduates ages 18-24). All students attend a four to eight-week orientation and language camp. Vocational and young professional students study and participate in practical internships. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

LANGUAGE PROGRAMS

Learn a new language on the NATIONAL SECURITY LANGUAGE INITIATIVE FOR YOUTH (NSLI-Y) program, part of a multi-agency U.S. government initiative to improve Americans' ability to engage with people from around the world who speak Arabic, Chinese (Mandarin), Hindi, Korean, Persian (Tajik), Russian and Turkish. Study abroad on summer and academic-year programs where the languages are widely spoken. NSLI-Y students reside with host families while pursuing intensive language study, providing both informal and formal opportunities for language practice with native speakers. Applications are accepted in the fall of each year.

SHORT-TERM EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Travel abroad for 3-4 weeks to gain firsthand knowledge of foreign cultures and to collaborate on solving global issues through the AMERICAN YOUTH LEADERSHIP PROGRAM (AYLP). Current AYLP programs operate in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Cambodia, Malaysia/Singapore, Paraguay, Peru, Samoa, and Uganda. Some programs draw from a national applicant pool, others may be limited to a region or group of states. Also available are reciprocal Youth Leadership Programs; you may host an exchange participant as well as travel abroad. Current projects are with Indonesia, Central Europe, Poland, Nepal/Sri Lanka, Azerbaijan, and Central/South America. Application dates vary by program.

Bring the World Home - Host a Department of State-sponsored international exchange student. Learn more at hosting.state.gov.

The American Enterprise Institute in Washington, DC, is home to some of America’s most renowned public policy scholars. A nonpartisan public policy research organization, AEI is dedicated to preserving and strengthening the foundations of a free society through independent thinking, open debate, and reasoned argument. It does this in part by providing educational and career development opportunities to the next generation of leaders through its Executive Council Program.

Why join an AEI Executive Council?

- Promote substantive conversations about public policy on campus by hosting events and activities throughout the year such as lectures or discussions with AEI scholars or local professors, private dinners with scholars or business professionals, student debates, reading groups, and film and debate screenings.

- Strengthen your leadership ability and public policy knowledge with the help and support of AEI.

- Attend exclusive gatherings for public policy discussion and leadership training at AEI’s headquarters in Washington, DC, and other locations around the country.

- Connect with former students and alumni of AEI’s Academic Programs to explore career opportunities in the world of public policy.

- Join AEI’s nationwide student network through AEI Connect, a new platform that allows undergraduates interested in learning more about public policy to connect with one another and to AEI.
