NASA 2014 Spring Internships:
Office of Legislative & Intergovernmental Affairs

Where: National Aeronautics & Space Administration Headquarters, 300 E St. S.W., Washington, D.C.

Duration: Spring semester (Part-time, 20 hours, flexible schedule, beginning in late January or early February through May)

Description: NASA Headquarters, Office of Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs (OLIA), Outreach Division, is accepting applications for part-time unpaid internships for Spring 2014.

OLA interns will learn about how a Federal agency’s legislative affairs office functions. Intern responsibilities will include: assisting with planning and executing events on Capitol Hill, researching legislation, database entry, and other administrative tasks as assigned.

OLA provides executive leadership, direction, and coordination of all communications and relationships, both legislative and non-legislative, between NASA and the United States Congress as well as state and local governments.

Candidates should possess strong organization, good communication skills, a professional attitude, and an interest in the legislative process. Students majoring in politics, policy, communications or science and engineering fields preferred. An interest in aeronautics, space science and exploration is also desired. U.S. Citizenship required.

To apply, please send a resume and cover letter describing your interest in interning at NASA and your relevant skills and experience to Lisa Stewart, at lisa.stewart@nasa.gov by Dec. 6.

Department of State Pathways Internship Recruitment - Coming Soon!

The Department of State will be recruiting for the Pathways Internship Program in the coming weeks. Announcements will be posted on USAJOBS during the November 1- November 15 timeframe.

Given the high demand for these internship positions, HR/SS will only accept a certain number of applications due to the limited number of intern positions available in the Department. HR/SS will only review the applications received prior to the limit being reached (this will be clearly stated in each vacancy announcement). USAJOBS posts vacancies at 12:00 am (EST). We strongly suggest those students who are interested in these positions prepare their application packages in advance of the job announcement and create accounts and Saved Searches on USAJobs. The Saved Searches functionality can be used to request alerts when these positions are posted.

In addition, students are encouraged to visit the Careers Website and click on the “Keep me Informed” link in order to receive notices directly from the Department when Pathways positions are posted.

As a reminder, The Department’s Pathways Internship Program has two components to allow for flexible recruitment: the Internship Experience Program (IEP) and the Internship Temporary Experience Program (ITEP). The Internship Experience Program (IEP) allows for non-temporary appointments without a not-to-exceed date. The appointment is expected to last the length of the academic program for which the intern is enrolled. The Internship Temporary Experience Program (ITEP) places interns on temporary appointments not to exceed one year with the possibility of extensions in one-year increments. The temporary nature of ITEP allows for interns to work during seasonal and holiday breaks in academic programs. Both programs allow for noncompetitive conversion into the Competitive Service after successful completion of the internship.

Intern with Jack Evans for Mayor

Councilmember Jack Evans, Democratic candidate for Mayor of the District of Columbia, is seeking a group of dedicated team members to play a key role in his 2014 bid for Mayor. Jack Evans has led the effort to pass marriage equality here in the district, secure funding to build the Nationals Ballpark, and led the revitalization of Chinatown.

The internship program provides an opportunity for undergraduate students to gain a crucial understanding of the political process, and play a key role in improving the city's future. We are looking for interns to join our team. Interns will gain substantive work experience in our political outreach department leading projects in voter engagement, team building, political outreach, volunteer recruitment and voter turnout.

Outreach Intern Qualifications:

- Current undergraduate student
- Strong interpersonal and written communication skills
- Being creative, innovative and possessing a strong learning curve is helpful
- A good sense of humor
- Excels when working in a high stress environment
- Can manage and prioritize a large workload
- Determined to win!
- Previous campaign experience is preferred but not required
- Working knowledge of Votebuilder is also preferred but not required

Evans for Mayor will be accepting applications on a rolling basis. Interested applicants should submit a resume to Jeanni Simpson, Outreach Fellow at jeanni.simpson@gmail.com. College credit will be provided.

The Institute for National Strategic Studies Seeks Spring 2014 Interns

The Institute for National Strategic Studies (INSS) at the National Defense University (NDU) in Washington, D.C. is now accepting applications for its Spring Semester 2014 Internship Program. We would like your assistance in advertising this program to current undergraduate and graduate students, as well as recent graduates, who are U.S. citizens.

INSS is a collection of Department of Defense research centers established in 1984. The mission of the Institute for National Strategic Studies (INSS) is to conduct research in support of the academic and leader development programs at NDU, and to provide strategic support to the Secretary of Defense, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Unified Combatant Commands.

INSS includes the following Centers: the Center for Strategic Research (CSR), the Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs (CSCMA), the Center for Technology and National Security Policy (CTNSP), the Center for Complex Operations (CCO), and the National Defense University Press (NDU Press).

We offer unpaid internships in a variety of areas pertaining to national security and international affairs. All INSS interns provide substantive research assistance to our Senior Fellows and Staff, as well as have the opportunity to participate in Defense Department and Interagency meetings and events.

Our areas of subject matter expertise include: Western Hemisphere/Latin America, Africa, Europe, Russia, Middle East and North Africa, South Asia, China and East Asia regional concentrations, in addition to functional topics such as military force structure and readiness, intelligence, cyber-security, counterterrorism, counterinsurgency, science and technology policy, humanitarian assistance and disaster relief, energy and environmental security, international law, international economics, national security reform, contingency and complex operations, post-conflict stabilization and reconstruction.

Application requirements include submission of a cover letter, resume and 2-3 page writing sample. Application deadline for the Spring Semester 2014 Internship is November 18, 2013. Please send applications to INSS_Intern_Program@ndu.edu. We welcome applications from students receiving credit for internships or concurrently enrolled in courses and are happy to accommodate those schedules. Part-time and Full-time internships (not to exceed 32 hours per week) are available.

ALL INTERNSHIPS ARE UNPAID AND REQUIRE U.S. CITIZENSHIP.

Democratic Campaign Fundraising Firm Seeks Interns

Advanced Network Strategies is a Democratic Campaign Fundraising firm located on Capitol Hill specializing in contributions from interest groups. The firm’s eleven clients cover a wide range of knowledge, expertise, and geography. Its client roster currently boasts 11 Members of Congress including Mike Thompson (CA), Bennie Thompson (MS), Collin Peterson (MN), John Larson (CT), Emanuel Cleaver (MO), Hank Johnson (GA), Jim Cooper (TN), Janice Hahn (CA), Luis Gutierrez (IL), Robin Kelly (IL), and Marcia Fudge (OH). While specializing in fundraising here in Washington, DC, ANS also handles our clients’ events across the country.

Our internship provides a high level of exposure to the political process for students interested in a career in politics. Interns will interact with Members of Congress, Lobbyists, and Hill Staffers on a daily basis. Additionally, the firm consists of only two paid employees, making our intern a valuable and necessary part of the office. While the job does include some data entry, the vast majority of our intern’s responsibilities involve direct interaction with our clients and potential contributors. Interns will be responsible for planning and executing fundraisers, conducting research on potential donors, staffing Members of Congress, as well as soliciting contributions from interest groups and individuals. This is an unpaid internship.

The ideal candidate would be well-versed in current events (e.g. read a newspaper daily), have excellent phone presence, be able to multi-task in a fast-paced environment, be responsive and decisive. Because our interns spend so much of their time interacting with Members and their staffs, candidates must be mature, professional, and a quick-study.

To apply, please send a copy of your resume to Julie Vieburg at JVieburg@gmail.com.

Public Interest Law Opportunities at NYU School of Law

NYU School of Law has long been a leader in public interest law and provides generous grants through the Root Tilden Kern Scholarship Program for selected students who have a demonstrated commitment to public interest. I am writing to you today to share very exciting news. In continuance of its long-standing commitment to supporting students who wish to pursue public interest work, the Law School is pleased to announce the establishment of a new scholarship program specifically designed to train and support selected top students with an interest in pursuing a career in public policy.

The Furman Public Policy Scholarship Program will not only award full-tuition scholarships, but also focus on substantive competency, experiential learning, values, and mentorship. All scholars will enroll in seminars developed to teach students how to think and write like a policy maker and participate in our Legislative and Regulatory Process Clinic based in Washington, D.C. Faculty advisers will work closely with scholars to provide individualized academic planning and advising. The faculty and administration will assist in securing placements for scholars in policy-making branches of government during 1L and 2L summers and will provide support in securing post-graduate career placement. Each scholar also will be paired with a public policy alumnus for a formal mentorship.

We believe that this experience will uniquely prepare scholars for a career in public policy.

Please feel free to share this information with your students and encourage them to contact the Office of JD Admissions if they have any questions.

Sincerely,

Kenneth J. Kleinrock
Associate Dean for Admissions

2014 ICPSR Summer Undergraduate Internship Program Now Open

Applications are being accepted now for the 2014 ICPSR Summer Undergraduate Internship Program, an intensive, 10-week program in Ann Arbor, Michigan, for students interested in social science research.

Apply now through the ICPSR online application portal. To complete the application form, students must answer a few questions; upload a cover letter, resume, and list of relevant courses; and provide contact information for two recommending college faculty or staff members, or employer references. The recommendations must be completed through the ICPSR recommendation portal.

The deadline for all materials is January 31, 2014.

About the Internship
The NSF-funded Research for Undergraduates (REU) internship program (Grant No. 1062317) matches students with mentors at the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), and supports exploration of a research question from start to finish — including literature searches, data analyses, and creation of conference-ready posters summarizing students' research findings. Interns can attend graduate-level courses in quantitative methods at the University of Michigan taught by leading faculty across various research fields. Additionally, all ICPSR interns learn valuable data-management techniques using statistical packages such as SPSS, Stata, and SAS. Visit our website or view the flyer (PDF, 466 KB) for more information.

For examples of research projects done by past ICPSR interns, please see these videos.
State Department Talk on Challenges and Opportunities in Brazil

The U.S. Department of State’s next Foreign Policy Classroom program will be held on Tuesday, November 5th, from 11:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m.

The topic for this program will be “U.S. Foreign Policy Challenges and Opportunities in Brazil.” We are pleased to announce that the speaker will be Jana Nelson, Brazil Desk Officer, Bureau of Western Hemisphere Affairs.

In order to attend this program, you will need to fill out the attached Excel document with your security information and return it to foreignpolicyclassroom@state.gov. This document outlines information required by Department Security in order to admit visitors into the building for this program. This information is due on Monday, November 4th, by 12:00 p.m.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Thank you, and we look forward to welcoming you to the U.S. Department of State.

Sincerely,

The Office of Public Liaison,
The Bureau of Public Affairs
Dear friends,

Good news—it’s not too late to apply to the Faith and Reproductive Justice Leadership Institute or to share the application with interested colleagues, organizations, advocates, and clergy. We have extended the application deadline to Friday, November 22.

A little bit more about the program: The Institute is a year-long training opportunity for advocates and leaders working on women’s sexual and reproductive rights and justice who view their work from a moral or faith-based perspective. Selected participants will come to Washington, D.C., January 14–16, 2014, for a two-day convening where they will receive media training, policy updates, messaging resources, networking opportunities, and more. Throughout the year, policy and communications experts from CAP and our partner groups will work with Institute participants in order to strengthen their voices and help expand reproductive justice work within their communities.

Last year’s leaders organized community events, spoke at conferences, gave sermons and legislative testimony, fostered new relationships with reproductive justice organizations, and helped educate the public by writing op-eds and blogs and speaking on radio and national television. You can learn more about the project here.

Please find the application for the 2014 Faith and Reproductive Justice Leadership Institute here. We hope you will send it to interested colleagues, organizations, advocates, clergy, scholars, and others who might want to either apply themselves or share the application with their networks. We especially encourage applicants who work with communities of color. We are accepting applications on a rolling basis until Friday, November 22, 2013.

Please let us know if you have any questions or would like more information about our faith and reproductive justice project.

Blessings,
Sally, Eleni, and the faith team

Native American Student Association Events for Native American Heritage Month

November is Native American Heritage Month, and the Native American Student Association has several events planned throughout the month that are designed to both celebrate Native American Heritage and Culture as well as educate individuals on the enduring presence of Sovereign Tribal Nations in North America.

We will be hosting 2 events that are specifically geared toward contemporary Native American Political/Policy Issues:

1. Keynote Speaker Kim Teehee (Monday, November 4th: Fungar Hall)

Kim Teehee is a citizen of the Cherokee Nation. Ms. Teehee served President Obama as the first-ever Senior Policy Advisor for Native American Affairs in the White House Domestic Policy Council. Kim worked with federal agencies to develop and implement policies focused on tribal consultation, tribal self-determination, economic growth, public safety, health care, and education and to resolve longstanding disputes. Prior to serving in the White House, Kim was Senior Advisor to the U.S. House of Representatives Native American Caucus Co-Chair, Rep. Dale Kildee (D-MI). Serving the bi-partisan Caucus for nearly twelve years.

2. Panel Discussion: Prominent Leaders in Contemporary Native American Politics: Featuring Congressman Tom Cole (November 11th: MSSC)

A panel discussion centered around contemporary Native American Politics and Policy. Representatives from the National Congress of American Indians, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and multiple Tribal Governments will be in attendance and discussing the ranging political and economic issues throughout "Indian country".

Additionally, Congressman Tom Cole will be in attendance. Congressman cole is a citizen of the Chickasaw Nation. Currently serving in his sixth term, Tom Cole was elected to Congress in 2002. Identified by Time Magazine as "one of the sharpest minds in the House", Cole is an advocate for a strong national defense, a tireless advocate for taxpayers and small businesses, and a leader on issues dealing with Native Americans and tribal governments. Cole was named as one of "Five Freshmen to Watch" by Roll Call at the outset of his congressional career.

Partnership for a Secure America

PARTNERSHIP FOR A SECURE AMERICA (PSA) WAS CREATED IN 2005 BY A GROUP OF SENIOR DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS TO ADVANCE BIPARTISAN PROGRESS ON TODAY'S CRITICAL FOREIGN POLICY AND NATIONAL SECURITY CHALLENGES.

LEARN MORE AT www.PSAONLINE.org/b2b

Calling all future leaders! Partnership for a Secure America, a nonprofit that works to promote bipartisanship in foreign policy and national security, is creating an undergraduate discussion and skills workshop for you! We propose a ten week workshop on Tuesdays starting January 28th. You will have the chance to learn and discuss with professionals in the foreign policy and national security community. This program will provide the skills and knowledge necessary for you, our future leaders, to learn to work across the aisle. Learn to negotiate like a world class diplomat, speak like the president elect, and write memos like a boss from experienced professionals.

Partnership for a Secure America (PSA)’s Back to Bipartisanship Program is a GWU Foreign Policy and National Security Scholar Program. It will bring undergraduate students together to build skills and relationships required to advance bipartisanship on national security and foreign policy issues. Through meet and greets, networking, skills training, and debate sessions, this unique program aims to equip the next generation of foreign policy and security experts to respect differences, build common ground and achieve US national interests.

Visit www.psaonline.org for more information on our organization.

Eligibility Requirements:

*A current junior or senior with a strong, demonstrated interest in working in national security and/or foreign policy.

*Submission of application with a current resume to julin@psaonline.org

To request an application or more information, please email julin@psaonline.org

Application Due: November 22nd.
A Path to Equality: The Impact of the Civil Rights Acts of the 1960s
Panel Discussion, Free Admission
Thursday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m., William G. McGowan Theater
Presented in partnership with the U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress

In celebration of the upcoming December opening of the David M. Rubenstein Gallery “Records of Rights” exhibition, we present a distinguished panel of Civil Rights experts focusing on the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Moderated by Todd Purdum, nationally recognized political journalist and contributing editor at Vanity Fair, panelists include Carol Moseley Braun, former Senator from Illinois; Eleanor Holmes Norton, Congresswoman for the District of Columbia; Charles Ferris, Senator Mansfield’s Chief Counsel during the debate about the Civil Rights Act and the Voting Rights Act; James R. Jones, former Congressman from Oklahoma; and political strategist Michael Steele. The panel will examine the political challenges and debate that resulted in this groundbreaking legislation, give a behind-the-scenes look at what it took to pass both acts, and discuss the Supreme Court’s recent decision to invalidate key parts of the Voting Rights Act.

UK / UNH Study Abroad for Summer 2014

The University of New Hampshire is proud to sponsor its thirty-sixth annual faculty-led summer program in the UK at the University of Cambridge. The program will be accommodated at Gonville and Caius College, one of the oldest and best known of the thirty-one colleges that make up Cambridge University. Students stay at the college from July 6 - August 15, 2014, and choose from a series of courses taught by a distinguished British and American faculty.

This summer, our program will offer the following 6 courses, of which students choose two. A 400-level course at UNH is the equivalent of a 100-level course at most institutions:

- History 498: Britain and the World Wars
- History 600: Monarchy and its Challenges in the British Isles, 1500-1707 [also available for grad credit as History 800]
- English 511: London in Nineteenth Century Literature
- English 758: Shakespeare: Performance and Interpretation [available for graduate credit as English 858]
- English 797H: Modernist Fiction: 'Difficult Music' [or for graduate credit as English 897H]
- English 797O: Entertaining Crime in English Renaissance Literature [or for graduate credit at English 897O]

For course descriptions, please visit our website: http://www.unh.edu/cambridge/.

Students will also travel on program excursions to London and Stratford-Upon-Avon, and to Edinburgh, Scotland on an optional bonus weekend. The program also provides tickets to two or three Shakespeare performances: at Shakespeare's Globe Theatre in London, and at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford-upon-Avon (two for students taking the Shakespeare course). The program fee covers tuition for two courses, breakfast daily and dinner Sunday through Thursday, private room, transportation and entry fees on program-sponsored excursions, tickets and transportation for at least two of Shakespeare's plays, and special events. See "Fees" section of the website for more info.

Program is open to all second-, third-, and fourth-year undergrads with a minimum GPA of 2.50; all graduate students with a minimum GPA of 2.50; and a limited number of first-year students with exceptional records.

Please direct all student inquiries to cambridge.program@unh.edu or to our website.
